DEMOCRATS PLAN TO CAPTURE NEW HAMPSHIRE

PLUNDERBUND FIGHT CENTRED ON HEARST

CHANLER'S SUCCESS SHOWS TRUSTS MADE HEAD OF PEOPLE'S TICKET CHIEF TARGET.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The plurality of Charles E. Hughes for Governor over William Randolph Hearst is 16,638. There are a few districts missing which may make a difference of 1,000 votes either way.

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler is elected Lieutenant-Governor by a plurality ranging from 29,000 to 35,000 and carried with him all the remainder of the State Democratic ticket.

Even a superficial analysis of the vote shows how desperate was the plan to defeat Hearst. Every force was arrayed against him—the corrupt trusts, the slavish lobbyist employed by the trusts, bribery in every form and corruption large and small—the order was to defeat Hearst by trade—by any sort of foul means, for Hearst was the man to be feared if elected.

Fought Big Odds.

That is how it came about that the remainder of his ticket was allowed to get the gratifying vote that was obtained for it. The men who were determined upon the defeat of Hen Gardiner that he was the real heart of the great movement and the leader of the people in the fight against corruption, and his defeat was determined upon at any cost. Money was paid for votes. Bribery was open. Repeating was barefaced.

But throughout the day the members of the Independence League and Independent voters fought bravely against tremendous odds for their principles and their leader, and to them belongs the credit for the great vote that was piled up.

The anti-machine elements throughout the State who worked and voted fearlessly for their leader also deserve credit for the splendid showing they made.

Defeat for McCarren.

Hearst carried Brooklyn by 4,679.

McCarren's own Assembly district, the Fourteenth, gave Hearst a plurality of 1,340. The district is normally Democratic by 2,000.

Hearst carried Buffalo by about 30. Hughes carried Erie County by about 2,000.

The Legislature is still Republican with a majority on joint ballot of 112. The Democrats gained three senators up the State. Senator Armstrong of the new Forty-sixth District, the insurance investigator, is supposedly secure. An interesting figure in the new Assembly will be Daniel J. Collins of Kings, an Independence League member, who defeated both his Democratic and Republican opponents.

STILL FIGHTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

The remarkable showing for the Independence League and Democratic candidate was startling up the State, where Mr. Hearst swept away the huge Republican majorities of two years ago and carried most of the large manufacturing cities and towns.

Besides Buffalo, Mr. Hearst carried Rochester and Syracuse, both the latter usually opposition strongholds. In practically every county in the State the usual Republican majorities were cut down about one-third.

This is what Mr. Hearst had to say after the final result was in:

"In view of the result I have only to say what I have said in my speeches.

"I am enlisted in this fight against the control of government by the trusts and corrupt corporations, and I will fight it out to the end.

"But I will serve in the lead or in the ranks, exactly as the people desire, and as earnestly and loyally in one place as in the other.

"The people have decided to retain the Republican party in power. I will make my fight in the ranks, therefore, and as a private citizen do my best to promote the interests of my fellow-citizens."

TRUST JUDGES BEATEN.

The Independence League and Democratic judiciary ticket in Manhattan and the Bronx was swept into office by a decisive majority. In particular, this puts on the Supreme Court bench the especial Independence League selections, John Ford, Samuel Seabury, John W. Goff, John J. Brady, Charles W. Dayton and Charles L. Guy.

With this victory, the Republican Choate judiciary nominees were overwhelmed with defeat. The trust lawyers' candidates were repudiated utterly by the people.

FREE INVENTOR IN BANKRUPTCY

Despite strenuous objections on the part of creditors of E. Moody Boynton, inventor, of Newbury, he was granted his discharge in bankruptcy by Judge Dodge of the United States District Court to-day. Boynton's debts were $100,101.32, while the assets totaled $1.

Specifications filed by the opposing creditors charged Boynton with having committed numerous alleged offences punishable by imprisonment under the bankruptcy act, with having failed to keep books of account or records with intent to conceal his financial condition, with having concealed property within four months of his bankruptcy with intent to hinder, delay and defraud his creditors, and with having refused to answer material questions in the proceedings.

JOINT MEETING TO DISCUSS "PROGRESS"

The Twentieth Century Club and the American Peace Society will hold a joint conference on "International Progress" at the rooms of the club on Joy street this evening. Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood and Hon. Lloyd F. Chamberlain, who were delegates to the International Peace Conference at Milan, will be present. Osborne Howes, who recently returned from the Orient, will speak.

The Fight Has Only Begun!

BY JOHN P. FEENEY,

Chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

* * * But it is pleasanter to turn and contemplate another aspect of the campaign. Mr. Moran has had the loyal support of a strong body of unpurchasable voters. Practically every city which heard him greatly increased the Democratic vote.

The self-respecting and politically independent toilers in the industrial centres stood manfully by him. They have laid the foundation for a new movement of progressive democracy advancing to meet the human requirements of the present day.

This tide will not recede. The Democracy of Massachusetts has cast off the chains which bound the party organization to the elevated railroad and the Gas Trust.

The fight will not be over until the organization of the State government is entirely freed from the contamination of such ulterior influences.

"Interests" Busy in Many Boston Wards

PUT KNIFE IN MORAN

Democratic Vote Shown to Have Been Cut Down in Certain Districts.

The knifing of John B. Moran at the polls yesterday by Boston Democrats was the chief topic of election comment to-day in this city.

Those who are familiar with the situation have made a close study of the returns, and have found that the candidate was ruthlessly slashed in Wards 11, 16, 20, 21 and 22, in Ward 21 the treachery is charged to Harry P. Saxe, who is a Democratic power in that section, and whose relations with the Boston Elevated Railway are known.

All over the city, the politicians assert, the heavy hand of the Boston Elevated Railway was felt by the District Attorney, candidate for Governor. Democrats are asking what part William A. Gaston of the Boston L had in this plot to defeat the candidate of the Democratic convention and the Independence League.

In Ward 11, where for the Democratic silk stockings, Mr. Moran ran behind E. Gerry Brown. In some of the precincts of this ward only six votes were cast for Mr. Moran.

The revised vote for Governor in:

Guild, Republican, 222,673.
Moran, Democrat, 191,011.

For Lieutenant-Governor:

Draper, Republican, 200,628.
Brown, Democrat, 190,849.

There were but three congressional districts in which the result was in any sense close. In the fifth district Butler Ames's plurality over Flint is 2,387, against 4,650 two years ago. Andrew J. Peters vanishes Daniel W. Lane in the eleventh district by 3,616, the largest Democratic plurality ever given a Congressman in that district. Congressman Gardner is elected over Schofield by 2,500, and O'Connell's reduced plurality is 4,727.

The Senate will have twelve Democrats to twenty-eight Republicans, and the House, upon the latest returns is figured 173 Republicans to 65 Democrats, which is a Democratic loss of five from last year.

Governor Guild holds Fall River by just six votes. The first returns gave the city to Moran. Other changes give Mr. Moran nine cities and twenty-one towns as compared to seven cities and twenty-one towns which elected Governor Guild last year.

In this State the splendid fight made by E. Gerry Brown, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, is attracting much comment to-day. He came within less than 1000 votes of defeating Eben S. Draper. This is regarded in all political circles as a striking rebuke to the man from Hopedale and a fine showing for the Independence League. The unofficial figures of Mr. Draper's plurality are 9,823.

Mr. Moran received in Boston 50,586 votes, an increase of 2,502 over General Bartlett last year. Mr. Moran's plurality in the city was 13,461.

In every city where the Independence League had an organization, especially in the great labor centres, the vote for Moran and Brown showed the effects of the work of the league, in many instances turning a Republican plurality into a Democratic one.

BIG VOTE MAKES LEAGUE A FULL-FLEDGED PARTY

The Independence League is now a full-fledged political party in Massachusetts. It has all the rights to hold conventions, nominate candidates and do other things that any other political party may, legally. This was decided by the vote in the Independence League column for Governor yesterday.

The election laws make these provisions for the formation of a party in this state:

"Political party shall apply to a party which, at the preceding annual State election, polled for Governor at least three per cent. of the entire vote cast in the Commonwealth for that office."

The total vote in this State was something over 400,000, and the necessary number to insure the Independence League the right to be styled a party is about 11,000.

The total Independence League vote in the cities of the State, without a ticket, which has not been figured out yet, is about 25,000. In Boston the vote under the designation of Independence League totalled 8,222. Brockton will add considerably to the total in the State.

In this connection it is of interest to note that E. Gerry Brown, Independence League candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, was also nominated by the regular Democrats, and received a larger vote than was ever given a Democratic candidate for that office. The second largest was given J. C. Crosby, Democratic, in 1904, when he received 184,092. E. Gerry Brown received 190,849. Last year Henry M. Whitney received 180,089, so that Brown's vote this year is nearly 11,000 more.

Failure of Floyd to Secure Constitutional Majority Throws Election Into the Legislature—Possible Combination May Elect Jameson, the Democratic Candidate.

Special to the Boston American.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7.—The next Governor of New Hampshire will be elected by the Legislature. Latest figures show that Charles M. Floyd, Republican, of Manchester, is elected by only 800 votes.

To-day a plan is offered whereby the Democrats and the Churchill Republicans, acting together, may elect Nathan C. Jameson of Antrim, the Democratic candidate.

This is in return for Democratic support of a Churchill Republican—former Senator William E. Chandler or Judge James W. Remick—for the United States Senate, to succeed Henry E. Burnham of Manchester. Burnham's term expires next March.

It takes a majority of all the votes cast to elect the Governor in New Hampshire, and to-day, with seven-eighths of the vote in, Floyd has a plurality of barely 800 over Jameson, taking no account of the 2,000 or more votes cast for the Prohibitionist, Tetley of Laconia.

MAY BE CAUGHT IN OWN TRAP.

The constitutional provision for a "majority" vote was a device of the old-line Republicans, in order that the always Republican Legislature might have a final say in case of Democratic preponderance. This year, they may be holist with their own petard.

While the Churchill Republicans and Democrats will be in a majority in the House, the exact figures are as yet unobtainable.

The biggest surprise of all comes in Concord, where Jameson carried every ward in the city, overturning a Republican plurality of 500, and coming out of the city with a plurality of 9012. Ward 4, the home of Senator Gallinger, National Committeeman Streeter and Naval officer James O. Lyford, changed from 125 Republican majority to a Democratic majority of 154 votes.

The Democrats have gained from 40 to 50 members of the House and have elected eight out of 24 senators, with the outcome in three or four more districts in doubt.

Corporation control in New Hampshire received a serious jolt in the defeat of Samuel C. Eastman, Republican candidate for Senator in the Tenth District.

Mr. Eastman, President of the New Hampshire Board of Fire Underwriters, and trustee of several of the largest financial institutions of the State, attorney of the Boston and Maine Railroad, and the man picked especially by the insurance and railroad interests of the State to head off insurance, railroad and other reform legislation, was defeated by Fred N. Manley, Democrat, who made a campaign on a reform platform, by 93 majority in a district normally Republican by 600 majority.

Mr. Eastman was slated for election as president of the Senate without opposition.

Increase in Labor Vote.

The most pleasing feature was the remarkable showing of Charles J. French, Democratic labor candidate for Mayor. The labor men stood by him in large numbers. His fight was made against the present mayor, Charles R. Corning, backed by corporate support and all the city departments. Money and influence were freely used, but Mayor Corning's majority of two years ago of 740 was reduced to 375. It is regarded as a great victory for organized labor.

In a statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day Chairman T. H. Madigan says:

"The result in New Hampshire is a manifestation of the exercise of the Independent thought that has been so manifest in this county in the recent past. Two years ago the Republicans elected their Governor by 16,000. At this writing there is no doubt but that the Democrats will secure enough votes to cloud the issue and cause the election into the Legislature.

"If the towns and wards that have not been heard from maintain the same ratio of gain, the Democratic nominee, Nathan C. Jameson, will be elected Governor.

Senate and House Gain.

"The Senate will show a positive gain and the House will largely increase its Democratic representation.

"The government of the people, or the government of the corporations, as Mr. Hearst characterizes it, is well defined, and the people nobly responded."

PASTOR WINS OVER SYRIAN

After a long, protracted struggle, Rev. William A. Knight of the Congregational Publication Society won the legal controversy against Faddoul Moghalybeh, the Syrian lecturer, to-day, when Judge Gaskill of the Superior Court overruled the lecturer's exceptions to the Master's report, which was favorable to the society.

Moghalybeh brought a bill to restrain Rev. W. A. Knight as author of the society from publishing a book called "The Song of Our Syrian," on the ground that it was an infringement of the plaintiff's lecture on "Shepherd Life in Palestine."

LEAVES $4,000 FOR LIBRARIES

DEDHAM, Nov. 7.—In the will of Edward F. Slafter of Dedham, which was filed for probate to-day, $4,000 is given to colleges and historical societies for the purpose of founding and maintaining libraries. Dartmouth College receives $1,000 for its library fund; Massachusetts Historical Society, $1,000; New England Historical Society, $500 for a library, and the Latban Library of Clifford, Vt., $500 for general expenses.

I WILL FIGHT IT OUT TO THE END---HEARST

In view of the result, I have only to repeat what I have said in my speeches.

I am enlisted in this fight against the control of government by the trusts and corrupt corporations, and I will fight it out to the end.

But I will serve in the lead or in the ranks, just exactly as the people desire and as earnestly and loyally in one place as in the other.

The people have decided to retain the Republican party in power. I will make my fight in the ranks, therefore, and, as a private citizen, do my best to promote the interests of my fellow-citizens.—WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

FIGHT FOR RIGHT WILL GO ON

Says G. S. McFarland

SUCCESS IS SURE TO COME

Grenville S. McFarland, a member of Mr. Moran's campaign committee, issued this statement early today.

By Grenville S. McFarland.

WE are repulsed but not discouraged. This is a contest which is not often won at the beginning. Every movement toward better things gets under way slowly. We have fought our fight with scarcely any of the munitions of war. We had no money to pay for a single hired worker at the polls or pay for a solitary carriage. Five years of corporation control of the party habituated the voters to a dependence upon carriages and the solicitation of hired workers to get them to exercise the great privilege of manhood suffrage.

All the pampering to indifferent and slothful citizenship ceased when the Democratic party ceased to be Democratic. When our candidates refused to have any alliance or understanding whatever with the men or the corporations, who, in return for promises for every sort of corporation privilege and immunity, were accustomed to pay the election expenses of candidates for office, we were immediately obliged to depend upon small subscriptions from the public. Its temporary effect was to reduce our vote. Its ultimate effect will be to strengthen our self-reliance, and then to give us success.

Will Battle on with Renewed Vigor.

The results of the returns give us great courage. It is clear that there is in Massachusetts a conscience and an intelligent vote which is not appealed to in vain by the man whose cause is right. The struggle of the American people to equalize conditions, to make all equal before the law, to give all equal opportunity to rise in the world, to prevent organized wealth from steadily increasing the cost of living and reducing wages, to take political power away from the corporations through public ownership and operation of public service corporations, and through the initiative and referendum, is an irrepressible conflict in this country and in this State.

We are fighting on the side of truth, and though it be crushed to earth it will rise again. Undoubtedly the fight in behalf of the principles for which Mr. Moran has stood in this campaign will begin again to-morrow with renewed vigor and greater hope of success.

VOTE A TRIBUTE TO MORAN AND BROWN

John P. Feeney, chairman of the Democratic State Committee and one of Mr. Moran's campaign managers, gave out this statement after he was certain Mr. Moran had been defeated:

By John P. Feeney.

THE vote given to Mr. Moran and Mr. Brown is a remarkable tribute to them. They made the fight practically alone. They had none of the usual financial assistance afforded to candidates for high office.

The total sum contributed for the support of all the Democratic candidates on the State ticket will be less than is ordinarily contributed in contests to the smallest office in the State. Less than $3,000 was contributed this year for the whole State ticket. This was used in paying office expenses, telephone and telegraphic service.

The allowance was small, even for these purposes. Not one dollar was spent in behalf of the State ticket for carriage hire, advertising or any of the ordinary expenditures which have been so obnoxious in recent campaigns.

Compared with the total expenditure of over $100,000 in behalf of Democratic candidates in each of the last two campaigns, the large vote is a remarkable tribute to the Democratic candidates.

Mr. Moran had to face a bitterly hostile press. Every newspaper in Boston except the BOSTON AMERICAN was openly or actively supporting Guild.

Opposed by the Trusts.

Mr. Moran had also to face the opposition of the great trusts, the financial magnates, the railroads, the gas companies, and their unscrupulous followers in the ranks of the old leader Democrats calling themselves conservatives.

In addition to these elements he had the opposition of all the Democratic bolters who have been constantly feeding upon the choice morsels dropped to them from the corporation tables.

But it is pleasanter to turn and contemplate another aspect of the campaign. Mr. Moran has had the loyal support of a strong body of unpurchasable voters. Practically every city which heard him greatly increased the Democratic vote.

The self-respecting and politically independent voters in the Industrial centres stood manfully by him. They have laid the foundation for a new movement of progressive democracy advancing to meet the human requirements of the present day.

This ride will not recede. The Democracy of Massachusetts has cut off the chains which bound the party organization to the elevated railroad and gas trust.

The fight will not be over until the organization of the State government is entirely freed from the contamination of such ulterior influences.

Great Moral Victory.

An analysis of the incomplete election returns at this hour indicates a great moral victory for Mr. Moran. He received the largest vote a defeated candidate ever received. He appears to have carried every large city outside of Boston. He appears to have increased his vote over General Bartlett's by more than 20,000 over Mr. Gaston's by 21,000, and over Mr. Guild's more than 90,000. This proves Mr. Moran to have been the strongest candidate the Democratic party ever had. I say this notwithstanding the great vote of Governor Douglas.

It must be remembered that Mr. Moran was subjected to a three days' attack on Governor Douglas never known. The most vicious was brought down the night before the election, for the purpose of defeating Mr. Moran, and other attacks that might hurt Mr. Moran. Cabinet officers were brought from Washington to Governor Guild's aid, and attempts were made to coerce postoffice employees into voting for Governor Guild. Telegrams were sent to the Republican ward committees to get out the vote at any cost. The cost was high, but they failed to have it. The supreme effort was made, and the largest vote ever cast in Massachusetts resulted.

Mr. Moran has good reason to be satisfied.

TRIED TO GET FULL DEMOCRATIC VOTE, SAYS CITY CHAIRMAN

William F. McClellan, president of the Democratic City Committee, gave the following statement last night to the BOSTON AMERICAN:

"The returns received so as show a vote of 51,000 for Mr. Moran in Boston. These figures agree with the estimates given by the ward chairman Saturday last. While we increased our vote about 1,000 over last year, the large Republican reserve vote coming out as it did gave Mr. Guild an increase of 6,000 over last year. Every effort was made by the Democratic organization to get out the full vote for all the Democratic candidates."

LEAGUE PROUD OF SHOWING IN PEOPLE'S CAUSE; WILL FIGHT TILL IT WINS

By J. F. Davis,

State Secretary of the Independence League.

THE officials of the Independence League feel that the League's candidates have made a remarkable showing considering the conditions.

Neither the League nor the Democratic State Committee had sufficient funds for even the most essential campaign expenses, speakers' expenses, literature, election workers.

Neither had any efficient organization throughout the State. The League is but four months old. Its organization is necessarily not complete. The Democratic State Committee nominally possesses an organization in the State, but that organization, in every place where money was regarded as more to be prized than principle, was against the candidates instead of for them.

Less Than $3,000 to Spend.

As against this condition the Republican machine has unlimited funds—and spent them.

Both the League and the Democratic State Committee spent less than $3,000 for their candidates. The Republican machine had at least a hundred times that amount.

Notwithstanding this handicap, notwithstanding the opposition of every great public service corporation, notwithstanding the opposition of every Boston grafter whose ability to steal has been hampered by Mr. Moran's presence in the district-attorney's office, notwithstanding the active opposition of all the Gaston-Quincy Democrats in the State and every newspaper but one in Boston, Mr. Moran was defeated by only the normal Republican phrenity of Massachusetts and Mr. Brown by a much smaller figure. This indicates that the vote for Moran and Brown was not partisan, that nearly as many Republicans as Democrats voted for them—a fact very gratifying to the independent thinkers in and out of our league.

Fight Will Go On Until Successful.

While we were hopeful for a better result, we are not discouraged. In fact, we feel that as a whole the campaign has been very successful. If it has done nothing else, it has defeated several of the most notorious members of the legislature. Those who remain will probably act with more circumspection than in the past. The working people of the State are to be congratulated upon the fact that the severity of the campaign forced Governor Guild to promise that he would sign the Overtime Bill next year.

Rome was not built in a day. The fight which was begun in Massachusetts this year by the independent voters will go on until it is successful.

BROCKTON HAILS BROWN AS NEXT MAYOR OF CITY

Special to the Boston American.

BROCKTON, Nov. 7.—Every Brockton was given an enthusiastic reception and greeted as the official candidate for Mayor by his friends and neighbors when he reached home in the city early today. The unofficial vote of 4,705 polled here for him as the Democratic Independence League candidate for Lieutenant-Governor is the largest ever given a candidate in the history of Brockton, with a plurality of 1,936 over his opponent, his next highest showing for any candidate for that office stood on the people's ballot in 1902.

The official compilation was overwhelmed by the greeting of the crowd that received him at the Democratic headquarters when he arrived here from Boston. Crowds surged around him and eagerly grasped his hand.

"You've got to be the people's candidate for Mayor," "Well done, George," "You didn't get there, no, you're just as good to me," "We are with you."

These and similar sentiments, punctuated with cheers, were expressed by the voters who had stood so valiantly by their leader in what will go down in history as the most memorable political campaign in the history of the old Bay State.

"This is the greatest testimonial that I have ever received, this estimation of my own townspeople. Don't ask me about my Mayoralty. I know you would stand by me. I am deeply grateful." Mr. Brown's voice betrayed the intensity of his feelings as he acknowledged the impromptu ovation. "This is one of the proudest days of my life," he added, as he left for his home.

50,000 GET RETURNS FROM AMERICAN BULLETINS

TWO IMMENSE CROWDS CHEER FIRST NEWS

Adams Square and Summer Street Gathering Points For Enthusiasts.

2 STEREOPTICONS WORK

Fifty thousand is a conservative estimate of the number of people who gained the first news of the results of the election from the BOSTON AMERICAN bulletins in Adams square and at the junction of Devonshire and Summer streets.

From the middle of the afternoon, when the first returns began to arrive, until nearly midnight, when there was no longer any doubt of the outcome of the greatest political battle in the history of the Commonwealth, the vast throng at either place surged about, cheering as the figures were displayed upon the immense sheets of canvas and their respective favorites were shown to be gaining in strength.

At no time, however, was there disorder. The tendency that might be expected on the part of some in such a large number of people to create disorder was quickly checked by the vigilance of the police especially detailed to preserve order.

In Adams square the bulletins were thrown across by a powerful stereopticon stationed upon the building of the Leopold Morse Company to the large canvas screen on the building occupied by Stoims, Lees & Co.

Summer Street Thronged.

At the entrance of Devonshire street into Summer, the screen was in the form of a banner, flung across the street from two towering poles. In a temporary structure on Devonshire street, twenty feet above the ground, the stereopticon was stationed. Here, as at Adams square, men were stationed in direct communication by wire with the editorial rooms of the BOSTON AMERICAN. The very latest bulletins from the polling places, received by telephone and telegraph in the editorial rooms were quickly flashed to the bulletin men, and immediately thrown upon the canvas screens to the gaze of the waiting populace.

On Summer street was gathered without doubt the largest throng that any bulletin stand in the city. Police Captain Lawrence Cain of the Lagrange street station, who was in personal charge of the details here, declared that, in his opinion it was the largest crowd he had ever seen on an election night in this city.

All Factions Represented.

Along Summer street, westward for a block, it extended, and in the other direction flowing over into Lincoln street. Each new bulletin was the signal for an outburst of applause and cheers. Every political faction was apparently represented. The greatest interest, of course, was in the contest of Moran and Guild, and Brown and Draper.

Considerable interest was manifested also in the results of the New York State election. The first news of the results in New York was received by the BOSTON AMERICAN over its leased wire, and as quickly as it was received it was given to the throngs about the bulletins on Summer street and Adams square.

When the later returns indicated Governor Guild's re-election beyond a doubt, all interest centred about the Brown-Draper contest, while interest in the New York results remained unabated. As each new bulletin indicated a chance that Brown might still beat the day from Hopedale, the enthusiasm of the crowds knew no bounds, and Republicans and Democrats alike joined in a tribute of cheers for the veteran campaigner of Brockton.

Rebuke from Labor.

Many comments were heard upon all sides regarding the poor showing made for Moran in the city, and remarks intimating that the standard bearer of the Democrats, the Prohibition party and the Independence League was not meeting with a square deal in the city were heard in many quarters. The magnificent showing of Brown was construed generally as a wholesale rebuke from organized labor to the administration on Beacon Hill.

The intense interest of the gatherings, both at Summer and Devonshire streets, and in Adams Square, regarding the outcome of the New York State election was not abated to the very end. When the crowds gradually thinned out, there was nothing definite about the outcome of the fight of William R. Hearst against the Republican machine in the Empire State. So close was the contest that there were many who believed Hearst might still be acclaimed the victor. Bulletin after bulletin showing the great gains made by him above the election in the banner Republican counties, justified their belief and were received with repeated applause.

The same uncertainty continued to the ends regarding the outcome of the Brown-Draper fight for the Lieutenant-Governorship in this State. It was not until long after midnight that the returns indicated the victory of the Republican candidates.

NEW YORK VOTE DISAPPOINTS ROOSEVELT

President Said to Regard the Result as Rebuke for His Interference.

HE FAILED OF OBJECT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The World today prints the following:

"WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt is by no means satisfied with the returns from the election in New York State. They did not come in with sufficient snap and certainty to please him. While all advices indicated the election of Hughes, they did not show the overwhelming indorsement that Mr. Roosevelt had expected.

Secretary Root performed a fairly good job of juggling figures to meet the President's anticipations. He was assigned the task of computing the net results. The President had become impatient and wanted to know just what might be the final outcome. He asked Mr. Root to take his pencil and arrange an estimate.

Secretary Root was quite liberal in his calculations. He allowed Hearst a plurality of 75,000 in Greater New York, and figured that Hughes would come to the Bronx with 150,000 plurality, thus giving him the State by 75,000. Then he shaded this estimate by saying that Hughes would have between 65,000 and 75,000 in the State.

The President immediately made the announcement that he would make no statement of any kind on the result in New York to-night. He intimated a waning interest in the whole matter.

It became evident from the President's determination to hold his peace that he regarded the result as a personal rebuke. He had evidently believed that with his support of the Republican ticket and opposition to Hearst, as evidenced by Mr. Root's Utica speech, Hughes would swamp the State.

He seemed to realize that the result would not forever remove Hearst from politics, but rather would prolong his political public life.

"Victory Over Yellow Journalism," Says Guild

I HAVE never cherished any illusions in regard to the character of this campaign, nor as to the very serious dangers which we have had to face.

I have fought the fight to the best of my ability.

It is not a personal victory, nor is it merely a Republican victory, splendidly as the Republican State Committee and other Republican organizations have worked for it.

It is a victory over yellow journalism.

That in three weeks year-long misrepresentations could be, as they have been, overthrown by a simple presentation of the truth is a splendid vindication of the judgment of the people of Massachusetts.—Governor Guild's statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN.

ARCHBISHOP GUEST OF HONOR AT RECEPTION

Most Rev. William H. O'Connell, D. D., Coadjutor Archbishop of Boston, will be the guest of honor at a reception in Boston College Hall to-night, given under the auspices of the Young Men's Catholic Association.

At the exercises in the college hall the president of the association, Matthew F. Sheehan, will preside; Michael J. Dwyer will speak for the membership of the association, and addresses will be made by Rev. W. F. Gannon, S. J., reverend president of the association and president of Boston College, and the distinguished guest of the evening.

The musical programme will be a feature of the evening's exercises. The Association Glee, numbering 100 male voices, under the direction of John P. Reardon, will render several numbers, and Mullaly's orchestra will also take part.

It is intended to have the audience seated at 8 o'clock, at which hour the Archbishop will be escorted to the platform by 100 members of the association, and the exercises will then begin.

At the termination of the exercises in Boston College Hall the Archbishop will proceed to the music hall, where he will receive the members of the association and their guests.

WOMAN JAILED, CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

WILMINGTON, Nov. 7.—A man, woman and boy, discovered by a youth and arrested upon his complaint for burglarizing the home of Charles J. Nichols here, will be arraigned in court at Woburn to-day.

They entered during the family's absence. A son came home and discovered them. He gave the alarm and they were arrested. They had secured a gold watch and clothing. The prisoners were taken to Woburn at once.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM IOWA

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 7.—The Democrats, at an early hour this morning, claim the election of Claude R. Porter, their candidate for Governor. At 1 a. m. returns received from 245 precincts, covering about one-eighth of the State, gave Cummins 20,123, Porter 25,850. The same precincts in 1903 gave Cummins 35,581, Sullivan 10,558.

This shows a loss of 3,458 for Cummins and a gain of 6,312 for Porter. The Republicans, while admitting that the result will be close, have not abandoned hope that Governor Cummins has been re-elected.

DEMOCRATS GAIN 3 SENATORS, LOSE 6 IN HOUSE

12 IN UPPER BRANCH NOW INSTEAD OF 9

Republicans Have 174 Representatives, Opposition Has 64, Against 70 Last Year.

ONE INDEPENDENT WINS

There is little change in the political complexion of the House as a result of the election, but the Democratic party is favors the Republicans. The new House will have 174 Republicans, 64 Democrats and one Independent Democrat who has been a Democrat. The old House stood 170 Republicans and 70 Democrats.

Among the well-known nominees re-elected to Congress are Speaker Dalzell, who was prominent in the bribery inquiry and against whom a strong fight was made; Michael J. McEttrick, to be elected from ward 17, having made his fight against the Curleys with the backing of the Independence League.

"Honest John" Quinn won in ward 7, running as an Independent Democrat and beating his opponent, R. A. Brickley, by 29 votes. Thomas J. Grady, of ward 6, who was defeated by Edward P. Barry in the primaries, failed to be elected by the Democrats.

One familiar face that will be missed is that of Captain William H. Dunham, of Nantucket, his district having elected to the new House by Ellenwood R. Coombs. Simon Swig also will be among the missing.

G. O. P. LEADERS ARE HAPPY AT RESULT, BUT--

Lodge, Draper and Others Express Wish Guild's Majority Had Been Bigger.

SAY "CALAMITY AVERTED"

Various Republican candidates and party leaders have given to the BOSTON AMERICAN statements commenting upon the outcome of the election. These statements follow:

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

"I am greatly pleased by the result of the election in Massachusetts, although I should have been glad to see larger majorities, in view of the nature of the issues before the people. The election of Mr. Brown would have been a calamity, and it is a matter of congratulation that by defeating him that it has been avoided.

"I have never had any sense of obligation to the many Democrats who, placing patriotism above party, helped us to save the State from the attacks made upon this year's campaign.

"I am also greatly gratified by the election of seven Republican Congressmen, retaining our present strength in the House. Returns from New York are not complete enough for comment."

Lieutenant-Governor Draper.

"I am greatly pleased at Governor Guild's increased plurality. It is a tribute to his excellent administration. Considering the character of the campaign waged against him, I am sorry that his plurality was not as much larger as it deserved to be. In view of the slipperative and slanderous campaign waged against me, I am greatly pleased at the splendid vote given me in Hopedale and Milford, where the employes of the Draper company live. I appreciate the loyal support more than I can express."

Chairman "homas Talbot.

"The result of the election is satisfactory. The victory of the Republican State ticket must be viewed as a rebuke of the attack upon the State government.

"The work done by the city and town committees is very gratifying to the State committee, especially in the city of Boston."

Attorney-General Dana Malone.

"Under the circumstances the vote was very satisfactory and gave cause for general rejoicing. The Governor and Lieutenant-Governor both received a majority though the ought to have received their elections by much larger majorities."

PETERS BEATS OVERTIME LANE FOR CONGRESS

Senator Andrew J. Peters proved to be a Democrat who could carry the eleventh Congressional district. He defeated Senator Daniel W. Lane by nearly 4,000 votes.

It was in this fight that the Wage Earners' clubs of the district took an active interest. Promotion was not desired by them for Senator Lane because of his attitude while a Senator on many of the measures which the laboring men desired to have passed.

It was up to Senator Lane that he has been against the working men in his votes. He appeared before several Wage Earners' meetings and vigorously defended his votes. He failed, however, to convince the workingmen that he had acted in their interests.

Following shows how the vote went by wards:

WESTFIELD, Nov. 7.—The town of Westfield has voted down the proposal to make it a city by a vote of 1,187 to 758. This is one of the largest towns in the State.

LONGWORTH OWES ELECTION TO HIS WIFE

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7.—Returns indicate the re-election of Nicholas Longworth to Congress, but by a majority much reduced from the 15,000 by which he carried the district two years ago. At present, Thomas Palmer, a coal miner in the south, made heavy inroads into Longworth's vote, and many believe if it had not been for the great interest Mrs. Longworth took in the fight the youthful coal miner would have seriously endangered his chances of going back to Washington for a third term.

In order to satisfy her curiosity, Mrs. Longworth went to a couple of meetings. When it became known she was to be present there was a crush of voters to see her. After she had spoken for ten minutes or so two rallies, she gathered contagious confidence to shake hands with a few of Nick's political friends.

LYNN GIRL'S ROMANCE OF ENGLISH HUNTING FIELD TO END AT ALTAR

MISS GERTRUDE HURLEY.

LYNN GIRL WHO IS TO WED BRITISH CAPTAIN IN HUNTING ROMANCE.

Miss Hurley to Wed Dashing Captain Schrieber, Whom She Met Riding to Hounds.

While they were riding afield after the hounds cross country in Old England, Miss Gertrude A. Hurley, of Lynn, and Captain R. A. P. Schrieber, of the Twentieth Hussars, of Round Wood, Ipswich, Suffolk, England, fell in love with each other at first sight and so they are to be married on the 21st of this month in St. James' Roman Catholic Church, London.

The wedding, which will be one of the most important social events of the season in England, comes as the culmination of a charming romance between a fair and a stately American girl and a sturdy British officer, in whose veins the blood of warriors flows.

Miss Hurley is the daughter of the late Michael J. Hurley of Lynn, who, at the time of his death, left to his six children, the wife and mother having died years before, a large estate in both money and realty. Miss Hurley has one sister, Miss Margaret A. Hurley, with whom she has been travelling on the Continent for the past two years. With four brothers, Thomas F., Charles A., Joseph M. and Edward M., the young women occupied the elegant residence left them by their parents, No. 74 Newhall street, Lynn.

Michael J. Hurley, the father, who had accumulated great wealth after buffeting the world for many years, determined to give his children all of the advantages of wealth. His daughter, Gertrude, who is soon to be married, was educated in the fashionable academy of the Ladies of the Sacred Heart, at Elmhurst, Providence, R. I., and later at the Academy of the Visitation at Georgetown, District of Columbia.

Graduating at the age of twenty-one, she left American for Europe to travel and to visit the great cities of the old world. During the time that the Misses Hurley spent in Paris, and it was several months, they were famed as being the most stylish and best dressed women in the city famous for beautiful and well-gowned women.

It was later, when visiting England, that the pretty Lynn heiress, who is now but twenty-three years of age, met the romantic fate that is to decide her after life. In England, as elsewhere, the pretty American girls were lionized by society.

Is a Daring Rider.

Amusement in England among the social sets means nothing if not riding to the hounds. Miss Gertrude Hurley, whose accomplishments are many and varied, had long been an ardent whip and a magnificent rider, and so she was invited and attended many cross-country hunts.

While visiting in Suffolk she met Captain Schrieber, whose father, Colonel H. Schrieber, had spent a lifetime in gallant service of his Queen, and who had won laurels on many a battlefield. The son, Captain Schrieber, himself has served in the British army for more than a decade, and has won for himself distinction by his services in the Boer war.

At the first cross-country ride after the hounds in Suffolk Miss Hurley and Captain Schrieber met. They rode together, the admired the magnificent figure of a man he made as he rode his English thoroughbred, and the brave Briton, in his turn, felt his heart beat faster as he saw the athletic and beautiful American girl ride her horse with extreme grace.

Chancing to meet at the height of the hunting season, such occasions were frequent, to the undoing of the young English captain. He forgot his crack company of the Twentieth Hussars, forgot everything, in fact, but the handsome young girl from across the seas.

The attraction proved to be mutual. Although by chance they were partners in every hunt, and were often in at the death together. The commonplaces of polite society soon were exchanged for expressions of regard that wrecked the peace of two hearts until the troth was plighted and the day for the wedding set.

Among the hunds of friends of the well-born and dashing Captain of the Hussars there was general rejoicing. The American girls and the young soldier were entertained and feted at a round of social functions. The bride and her sister, who is her devoted companion and confidant in everything, wrote to the brothers in Lynn and the fraternal blessings were freely bestowed.

The brothers left Lynn to-day for New York, from which they are to sail to-morrow for England, to be present at the marriage of their young sister.

Captain Schrieber comes of a very old and honored English family. For generations the men have been warriors and have served the English monarchs long and well. The wedding in St. James's Church, one of the famous Catholic Churches in London, will be an international event socially, and more than 2,000 invitations have been issued for the event.

After the ceremony the captain and his bride will take a long tour, which will include the United States, Lynn not being forgotten. Following the completion of their tour, they will visit for some time at the bridegroom's home at Ipswich, Suffolk, and later will live where his duties with his regiment compel.

NEGRO TROOPS OUT OF ARMY IN DISGRACE

Roosevelt Disbands Soldiers for Outrages Done in Texas.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—By dismissing in disgrace from the army, an entire battalion of colored troops because of their failure to disclose the identity of some of their number who had been guilty of violence and killing, President Roosevelt has taken a step unprecedented in the United States army. His action became generally known to-day.

The President has accompanied his act by an order which may amount to the court martial of a white army officer who was charged with having cast stars upon the colored troops.

On October 6 a squadron of the Ninth Cavalry, colored, reported for duty at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, Ill. Soon after there appeared the following account of a statement alleged to have been made by Colonel William I. Pitcher, Twenty-seventh Infantry:

"The negro troops would never have been quartered at Fort Sheridan without a protest if I was to remain in command here. I never liked them, and the farther away from me they are kept the better it pleases me. For the life of me, I cannot see why the United States should try to make soldiers out of them."

This alleged statement by Colonel Pitcher having been brought to the attention of the President, he immediately requested a full report.

The trouble started in Brownsville, Tex., where the troops were quartered in August. One citizen was slain and another wounded.

TEXTILE MEN DEMAND RAISE

FALL RIVER, Nov. 7.—The Textile Council was instructed last night by the affiliated unions to write another letter to the manufacturers asking for a ten per cent. increase in wages, which was refused Monday by the mill owners.

The advance is asked to be put into effect November 26, restoring the scale prior to November, 1903, and a reply is requested by November 19.

CAN YOU HELP IDENTIFY THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL?

By Boston American Staff Photographer.

The little baby girl who was left on the doorstep of ex-Mayor Thomas Strahan at No. 121 Bellingham street, Chelsea, will be turned over to the State authorities to-day unless someone comes forward to claim the child.

After investigating the case to-day the Chelsea police are inclined to believe that the baby, who is two months old, was born at the Relief Station of the Boston City Hospital, for nearly all of the clothing worn by the infant bears the identification mark of that institution.

The authorities at the Relief Station are unable to establish the identity of the child.

The baby is very attractive. She was an outing flannel dressing sacque and white dress, a white coat and a silk bonnet. The baby was found on the steps of the Strahan home late last night and was turned over to Mrs. Alice Keller, the police matron, who will deliver the foundling to the agent of the State Board of Charities late to-day.

PARENTS SAVE GIRL FROM A GYPSY BAND

Follow Her from Chicago and Find Her in Camp at Salem.

SALEM, Nov. 7.—Rosie Adam, a ten-year-old girl, who was stolen from her home in Chicago a year ago, was to-day rescued from the clutches of gypsies, who have camped here on the Loring farm for two weeks, by her father and mother, who have been hunting for her for months.

Rosie's parents found shortly after she had been stolen away that she had been brought East. They followed, and disguised themselves as gypsies, feeling that they would never find her in any other way.

The father and mother, who had spent hundreds of dollars in vain to find the child, joined the Stanley tribe in Somerville. Once they were real gypsies, apparently, they were not long in finding where Rosie was. The Stanley tribe were induced to follow the tribe now in Salem for some weeks.

Made Threats to Kill.

Two or three days ago the father went to the camp and found his daughter, but the gypsies would not release her. He moved his tent from the Stanley tribe and camped with that which held his daughter a prisoner. Threats, Adams says, were made by the gypsies that they would kill him, his wife and his daughter.

Early to-day he went to Walke's grocery store and called up the Salem police by telephone. Policeman Hyde was sent out and took the girl who is pretty and tanned, looking like a real gypsy, and gave her to her father and mother.

Stolen on Streets.

Adam has sworn out warrants charging abduction against the leaders of the tribe. The little girl is rejoiced to be with her parents, but clings to them, fearing that at any time she may be taken from them by the gypsies again.

She says that she was stolen on the streets in Chicago by a gypsy woman, placed on a train and brought to New York. Then the tribe began to wander in New England. The girl was dressed in gaudy gypsy attire and made to act as a fortune teller, she was told, she says, and made $400 for her captors, who took every cent of her earnings as fast as she made the money.

She had a large bruise on her face to-day when rescued, made, she says, by a gypsy woman with a large stone last night.

The father and mother are well-to-do Russians. They have considerable property in Chicago and have standing among the Russian colonists in that city. They will try to punish, through the law, their daughter's abductors before they take the little girl back home with them to Chicago.

FRENCH BUDGET SHOWS A DEFICIT

PARIS, Nov. 7.—According to a letter from Minister of Finance Caillaux to the chairman of the Budget Committee, the budget for 1907 shows in round figures a revenue of 3,657,000,000 francs and expenditures amounting to 3,832,000,000 francs, making a deficit of 175,000,000 francs.

LABOR CENTRES GIVE BIG MORAN AND BROWN VOTE

WORKERS BY LARGE DEMOCRATIC GAINS PROTEST REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION.

In all the great labor centres of the State the protest of union labor against the Republican administration was manifested by largely increased Democratic majorities, while a great many of them were swung from the Republican into the Democratic column. A large proportion of the vote for Moran and Brown was given them as Independence League candidates, and the nomination of the League undoubtedly greatly increased their vote.

In Lynn, which last year was carried by Guild by 819, Moran was given a plurality of 3½ while Bonney's plurality was cut against a plurality of 193 for Draper last year.

Brockton, which was carried last year by Guild by 370, this year gave Moran a plurality of 451. Draper carried the city last year by about 40 votes and this year Brown carried it by almost 2,000.

In Quincy, Guild's 1905 plurality of 537 was cut to 246, while Draper's lead of 230 last year was changed to a Brown plurality of 101.

Fall River made a change of about 1,000 on the vote for Governor, giving Moran 749 against a Guild plurality last year of 252. Brown's lead was 240, almost exactly the same as Whitney's a year ago.

In New Bedford a Republican plurality of 762 was changed to a Democratic lead of 271 on the vote for Governor. Draper's 1905 lead of 785 was changed to a lead of 50 for Brown.

Lowell gave Moran 940, a gain of 67 over Bartlett, while Brown had a plurality of 1,000, over 1,100 greater than Whitney received.

Taunton, although carried by Guild, gave Brown 36 more votes than Draper, the first time in the history of the city that it has given a plurality for a Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

Moran carried Lawrence by 1,360, while Brown ran far ahead of him, having a plurality of 2,100. Marlboro turned a Guild lead of about 100 into a Moran lead of over 500.

TO OUR READERS.

The following editorial is printed in the New York Evening Journal to-day:

Elsewhere in this newspaper is the message that Mr. Hearst sends to the true friends whose loyal support means more than victory.

The actual counted ballots prove—regardless of theft, of fraud and of bribery—that among those who live in this city, where Mr. Hearst has worked for years, A VERY GREAT MAJORITY HAVE HONORED HIM WITH THEIR CONFIDENCE AND THEIR VOTES.

Time and careful investigation will show what part has been played in this election by the mere spending of money for votes, and what part has been played by actual crime.

These questions are important to the people—far more important than to Mr. Hearst.

For, as he tells you to-day, he is content to work for your approval through his newspapers, and, as he has told you in the past, he is not in need of the extra work that the Governorship would have put on him, and not in need of the salary which goes with that office.

We are writing to CONGRATULATE our plucky army of fighting readers, not to condole with them.

In this greatest city in the United States many newspapers are published.

You, readers of the EVENING JOURNAL, with your one newspaper, BEAT ALL THE OTHER NEWSPAPERS COMBINED, BACKED BY ALL THE MONEY AND INFLUENCE OF THE TRUSTS.

This newspaper congratulates and THANKS its readers for a victory in Greater New York as humiliating to the time-serving, money-loving newspapers as anything could be to such concerns as they are.

The Sun, the World, the Herald, the Post, the Times, the Staats-Zeitung, the Mail and Express, the Evening Sun, the Brooklyn Eagle—the whole rabble—fought their best.

And in Greater New York, where these newspapers have been published for years, AND WHERE THEY ARE KNOWN, HEARST CARRIED EVERY ONE OF THE FIVE BOROUGHS.

This is a pretty good victory. That is a sufficient proof of the power of SINCERITY AND INTELLIGENCE AMONG READERS.

Sincerely we congratulate you upon the fact that alone you readers have had power to offset the influence of all the other newspapers in Greater New York put together.

We need not tell you, readers, that this newspaper is going right ahead fighting WITH YOU and for you.

We shall fight, of course, as far as our laws and our courts and OUR CORRUPT OFFICIALS will let us, to unearth the thievery and the fraud that have marked this election.

But win or lose, the real fight against the TRUSTS WILL CONTINUE.

By and by they will be putting up the price of coal, and the poor will suffer.

You will find Hearst opposing that in the old way, WITH HIS OWN MONEY, in the courts, doing his BEST.

What, if anything, you will find Mr. Hughes doing under these circumstances we do not know. We shall ask you when the time comes.

This newspaper will continue to attack the Ice Trust and the Milk Trust, exposing their methods that mean the murder of children.

And Mr. Hearst in the courts. WITH HIS OWN MONEY, WILL FIGHT THESE EVILS FOR YOU AS WELL AS HE CAN AND TRY TO DESERVE THE SPLENDID COURAGE AND FRIENDSHIP with which you have just fought for him in this campaign.

There won't be any let-up, readers. The trusts ARE NOT GOING TO HAVE IT ALL THEIR OWN WAY. There will always be a newspaper to tell the truth about them WHILE HEARST OWNS A NEWSPAPER.

There will always be a good lawyer in court to fight them as long as HEARST HAS A DOLLAR TO HIRE A LAWYER.

Readers, this has been a great fight and a great victory.

To go against the power of trust money in this country is like trying to swim up Niagara Falls. We, with our readers, have made a good swim of it. We shall get to the top yet.

And we start in swimming again TO-DAY.

Our only sorrow in this election is based upon our knowledge that there is bitter disappointment in the hearts of hundreds of thousands of Mr. Hearst's friends. We hope they will believe and REMEMBER that Mr. Hearst values their friendship above any possible office.

And we are sorry—if the trusts ARE to win in the final count—because we know it means continued anxiety and worry for the poor mothers and children on whom the trust load falls.

We can only say to THEM that Mr. Hearst will do everything that he can do out of office. This newspaper will be vigilant in their defence.

AND THE POWER THAT RULES THIS WORLD WILL NOT ALLOW INJUSTICE TO PROSPER PERMANENTLY.

Their own greed will drive the trusts to destruction.

Continuous extortion will rouse the people in the end to such a rebellion at the ballot box as no amount of money, no amount of fraud, NO ORGANIZED CRIME, will be able to resist.

To the MEN that have made this hard fight we offer congratulations upon what is really a great victory.

To the women and children we give our solemn promise that we shall try to protect their interests, and that at least THEY WILL NOT BE LEFT WITHOUT A DEFENDER AND AN ADVOCATE WHILE THIS NEWSPAPER IS PUBLISHED. Let us start in to-day, readers, all together working for the old lines. The trusts are not going to govern this country FOREVER.

FEDERAL EXPRESS IN PERIL IN COLLISION

BOAT CARRYING TRAIN IN EAST RIVER HIT ANOTHER CRAFT.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Amid the shrieks of 200 panic stricken men and women passengers, the steamboat Maine, of the New Bedford line, was rammed and her side smashed in for thirty feet by the big railway barge Maryland, bearing the Federal express, in fog-filled East River, today.

The passengers on the train and on the steamboat were terrified. The chief danger was to those on the Maine, which was filled to capacity. Some leaped into the river in full head of steam, she was run aground at Pier 36, foot of Houston street, and all lifeboats from the Maine and all sorts of craft that put out to the rescue took the passengers to the pier.

Officers Almost Overpowered.

The rescues were effected after the wildest scenes. The maddened rush for safety nearly overpowered the crew and officers of the Maine. Some in their fright tried to throw themselves overboard. Men struggled to lower the lifeboats, and were kept back only by the strong arms of the crew.

The accident was the result of misunderstood orders by one or the other of the captains. The crafts were in the "short reach" of the East River at Hell Gate, when the Maine tried to cross the bow of the Maryland. Evidently the captain of the Maine had miscalculated the speed of the barge of which, also, no one was left hold to her course.

The Maryland, with its heavy load of the big express train, Boston to Washington bound, crashed into the Maine eighty feet abaft her bows. With a great ripping and grinding the blunt beak of the barge bit into the iron plates of the steamer.

The plates were smashed in and the supporting steel girders broken like so much matchwood.

The Maine, under the impact, careened over and shivered from stem to stern. Most of her passengers were below at the time, and at once there was a rush to the deck, as the weight on the boat was sinking.

On the Federal express passengers were hurled from their seats by the shock to the floor of the latter, however, had sustained almost no damage. While the passengers on the floating train looked on those who were themselves calm enough realized there was no cause for life on the Maine was turned toward the shore.

The vessel was listed far over and the big hole in her side seemed to be taking in all the East River.

Every moment as she churned toward the park she seemed to sink lower. Her sloping decks were alive with frantic passengers. When at last she was seen to come to a stop and settle on the bottom the passengers on the floating train whose barge had kept on its way sent up cries of encouragement.

After the passengers of the Maine had been taken off, tugs of the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company and of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad were sent to the disabled and half awaken steamer to investigate the extent of her damage.

GRAND JURORS PROBE PAUPER GRAFT CHARGES

District Attorney Calls Special Session and Also Summons Prominent Citizens.

A SURPRISE AT LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Nov. 7.—District Attorney W. Scott Peters called the Essex County Grand Jury in special session to-day in an investigation of alleged gross wrongdoings in the pauper department of the city. As soldier Marshal Lucas and Under Inspectors Kelleher and Cadogan, armed with a bunch of summonses, by active work soon had important witnesses at the courthouse. Others are to be summoned. Those now at the courthouse are John F. Fitzgerald, a former employe of Superintendent James J. Stanley of the almshouse; Dennis F. Donovan, former superintendent of the city farm; Jeremiah Donovan, fireman at the city farm; Douglas Munroe, an employe of a local provision firm, and many other employes of the pauper department, besides city officials.

Inspector Kelleher is now seeking Michael F. Cronin, chairman of the Democratic city committee, with a subpoena. The investigation comes as a result of charges of graft, long made, in the pauper department.

Mayor John P. Kane and District Attorney Peters had a long consultation two weeks ago, and last week, when the pauper department division heads came up for reelection by overseers of the poor, Mayor Kane announced that he desired to be reconsidered as "not voting."

Conditions at he almshouse and city hospital will be looked into fearlessly.

The people generally were astounded when the District Attorney, employing the police and the entire force of inspectors, began sending out summonses by wholesale. The District Attorney will probe allegations made that the pauper department pay rolls have been padded, that supplies from the city farm have been sold without the city receiving the payment, and that young pigs, milk and garden truck raised on the farm have been delivered free to politicians, city officials, beach cottages, rumps and clubs.

FISH WORSTED BY HARRIMAN IN RAILWAY FIGHT

Illinois Central Road Passes Into Control of Standard Oil Interests.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—E. H. Harriman, in a battle of financial giants, worsted Stuyvesant Fish to-day and captured control of the great Illinois Central Railroad by electing his man, J. T. Harahan, president.

Harahan, who continues as second vice-president, succeeds Stuyvesant Fish in the presidency.

Dramatic Scene at Meeting.

During the meeting of twelve out of the thirteen directors of the road in its offices at No. 31 Broadway during the noon hour to-day, Stuyvesant Fish in a most dramatic scene, openly accused Harriman of bad faith and questionable practices in the fight for control.

When the proposition to vote on the presidency came up, Fish jumped to his feet and leaning across the director's table shook his finger in Mr. Harriman's face as he declared that Harriman had acted in a fashion that would put a ward politician to shame.

Someone grasped hold of Mr. Fish's coattails and pulled him back in his seat. Mr. Harriman sat unmoved. Finally the vote was put. Mr. Fish and three of his supporters among the directorate refused to vote, so that Mr. Harahan was elected president practically by a vote of eight to four. The three men who supported Mr. Fish in his stand were Charles M. Beach, J. D. W. Cutting and Walter Luttgen.

The directors who supported Mr. Harriman were Charles A. Peabody, former Governor Dineen of Illinois, Mr. Harahan, Robert Goelet, Cornelius Vanderbilt, John Jacob Astor and John C. Auchincloss.

Harriman's victory today means that the smaller, conservative stockholders are now at his mercy.

Harriman, who was backed by Peabody, head of the Mutual Life Insurance Company and close friend of James Stillman of the Standard Oil, will use the great Illinois Central property as another adjunct of Standard Oil interests.

CHARGES MOCK WEDDING; SUES FOR $25,000

Girl Alleges Bogus Justice of the Peace Performed Marriage Ceremony.

Declaring that marriage had been promised, and charging that a mock ceremony had been performed, Bessie Cohen, twenty-three years old, of Temple street, Boston, to-day brought suit against Edward Goldsmith, a cigarmaker of Hanson street, Boston, for $25,000 damages for alleged breach of promise.

In the papers filed the young woman says that she became engaged to be married to Goldsmith on June 14, 1905; that the next day he took her to the South End to a man whom he claimed to be a justice of the peace, and that this man performed a marriage ceremony.

She says that she lived with Goldsmith as his wife until September 22 last, when they quarrelled. She says that Goldsmith then told her that they had not really been married. She says she said to him, "Will you marry me?" and that his answer was "No." Hence the suit.

CZAR'S SHIP SUNK IN FIGHT WITH THE JAPS

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 7.—Serious disturbances have occurred between Russians and Japanese in Saghalien, the island which was partitioned between Russia and Japan by the Portsmouth treaty of peace. A report which has reached here says that the Russian transport Kolyma has been sunk.

HOCH BEATEN IN KANSAS

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 7.—Latest returns to-day show that W. A. Harris, Democrat, has apparently been elected Governor of Kansas over Governor E. W. Hoch by a plurality of less than 10,000.

The Republican State committee still claims the election of Hoch by 7,500, while Harris's manager claims the latter's election by 15,000.

AGED 95 AND ALWAYS SMOKED

Baltimore, Nov. 7.—John F. Radecke celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday at the home of his son-in-law, Mrs. A. Lenz, No. 228 North Fremont avenue, very quietly. In fact, it was no celebration at all, for the old man, who has almost rounded out a century would not have it so.

When asked to what he could attribute his longevity, Mr. Radecke immediately replied that it was his plain, simple way of living. That is the only proper way to live, he added. "Another thing that I would advise young people to do is to let strong drink alone. I made it a rule years ago not to indulge, and I never break it.

"But you are an inveterate smoker!" someone asked.

"Yes," he replied. "I have smoked all my life, and it hasn't hurt me in the least. In fact, it is a kind of harmony to my health. If I can't smoke my people know that I am sick. I am one of those who believe that smoking is injurious."

STABLEMEN'S UNION ACTS ON WAGE SCALE

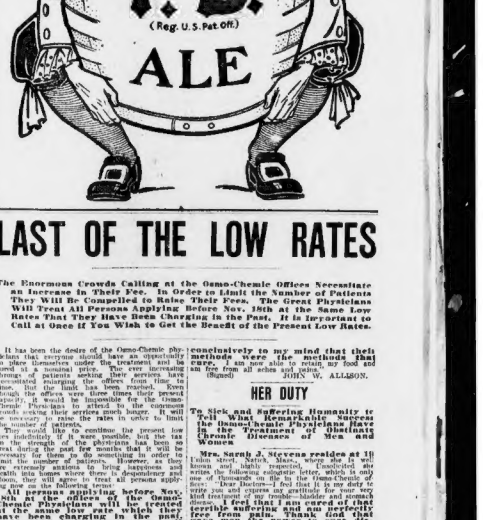
HERMIT'S LIFE FOR MRS. DOWIE

MUSKEGON, Mich., Nov. 7.—Jane Dowie, wife of the deposed head of Zion City, is now living like a hermit and outcast at the beautiful Summer home, Ben Macdhui, on the shores of White Lake, Muskegon County. Her only companion is her son Gladstone. An army of servants, gardeners and landscape artists, even Mrs. Dowie's private maids and cooks have been discharged, it is said, to save expenses.

The reason for Mrs. Dowie and her son living like exiles away from former scenes of splendor and plenty is that Mrs. Dowie some time ago commenced suit to recover the White Lake property, valued at $250,000, and she fears she is to stay on the property and see that no one gets the better of her.

BLOW SAFE, GET POSTAL BOOTY

WILMINGTON, Vt., Nov. 7.—Burglars entered the postoffice yesterday, blew open the safe and stole $400 worth of stamps and $200 in cash, besides money orders amounting to $100 and private papers belonging to Postmaster O. H. Jones, including checks, notes and bond interest books. It is believed that the robbery was the work of professionals.



LAURENTIAN IN, 2 DAYS OVERDUE

Two days overdue, the Allen line steamer Laurentian arrived in Boston to-day after a stormy passage from Glasgow. The Laurentian had seventy cabin passengers and 700 in the steerage. Many friends of them on board entertained fears for the safety of the ship. Captain Pitts reported that the steamer met some terrific gales while on the way over, and at times made only 100 miles a day, whereas in fair weather she covers three hundred miles in a like period.

TWO HURT AS STAGING FALLS

Harry Farrington, 35, of No. 30 Jamaica street, Jamaica Plain, and Thomas L. Gafferey, 50, of Marion street, Roxbury, painters, were thrown thirty feet in Franklin field to-day by the breaking of the staging upon which they sat while at work on one of the farm outhouses. They were taken to the City Hospital. Farrington was badly hurt about the back, and it is feared internally. Gafferey was not so seriously injured.

RARE ART RELICS STORED IN CELLAR

LONDON, Nov. 7.—In 1893 Sir William Holburne died and left to the museum of the city of Bath his collection of china, miniatures and pictures, which he had spent a lifetime gathering. There were some 250 pictures labelled with the greatest names in the history of painting. Recently Bath appointed a new curator for the museum in September he closed the gallery. They have now been reopened. Less than fifty pictures remain on the walls. The rest of the collection is in the cellars.

EXPLOSIONS AT FIRE SMASH WINDOWS

Three explosions occurred at a fire at Nos. 22 and 24 Exchange street early today which shattered windows in the burning building and in houses adjoining. The cause is unknown. The fire originated from defective wires in the basement in an unoccupied building. The damage is estimated at $1,200.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP SOUTH CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 7. The State Democratic ticket elected by a plurality of 30,000. Martin F. Ansel for Governor. The four congressional districts return Democratic Congressmen at large pluralities. The next Legislature will re-elect Benjamin R. Tillman United States Senator.

LAST OF THE LOW RATES

The Enormous Crowds Calling at the Osmo-Chemic Offices Necessitate an Increase in Their Fee. In Order to Limit the Number of Patients They Will Be Compelled to Raise Their Fees. The Great Physicians Will Treat All Persons Applying Before Nov. 15th at the Same Low Rates That They Have Been Charging in the Past. It is Important to Call at Once If You Wish to Get the Benefit of the Present Low Rates.

It has been the desire of the Osmo-Chemic physicians that everyone should have an opportunity to place themselves under the treatment of such a scientific and successful institution as the Osmo-Chemic Institute. The services have been increasingly in demand, and the crowds calling at the offices from time to time. But the limit has been reached. Even though the office was three times their present capacity, it would be impossible for the Osmo-Chemic Physicians to attend to the enormous crowds seeking their services much longer. It will be necessary to raise the rate in order to limit the number of patients.

They would like to continue the present low fees indefinitely, if it were possible, but the tax on the strength of the physicians has been so great during the past few months that it will be necessary for them to do something in order to limit the number of patients. However, as they are extremely anxious to relieve the sufferings and distress of as many as possible, and to cure them, they will allow all persons applying now on the following terms:

All persons applying before Nov. 15th at the offices of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians will be treated at the same low rate which they have been charging in the past. It is important that persons contemplating calling at once, as the enormous crowds of patients now seeking the Osmo-Chemic treatment necessitate a raise in the fee, but if you call now you will be treated at the same low fee which has been charged patients in the past. This is your last chance to be cured at a nominal price.

FEARED CANCER

But Refused to be Operated Upon—Mr. Allison's Report of the Wonderful Results Obtained Lights Effect on His Case

Mr. J. W. Allison, who is well and favorably known and who resides at Seekonk, Mass., says: "Quite a number of doctors had examined my case and they all pronounced it a cancer and they called up those at the Mass. General Hospital, Boston, and they made an examination of the stomach, but there was no encouragement as to a cure, but recommended an operation, without which they claimed that my trouble would terminate in cancer. I read so much of the remarkable results obtained by the Osmo-Chemic Institute, Boston, that I wrote for their pamphlet, which was supplied to them for the asking, and at once that their methods were different from those of the other doctors, and the results they obtained in my case proved conclusively to my mind that their methods were the methods that I need, as I am now able to retain my food and am free from all aches and pains."

(Signed) JOHN W. ALLISON.

I am glad to say that I am now entirely cured and feel like a new woman. I am so glad that I have got rid of that awful pain. Thank God that I have met your treatment. I feel it is important in each case, I hope that every one who suffers from any disease will get the Osmo-Chemic treatment necessitate a raise in the fee, but if you call now you will be treated at the same low fee which has been charged patients in the past. This is your last chance to be cured at a nominal price.

LABOR REBUKES HUNTER FOR HIS OVERTIME VOTE

Fifth Middlesex Senatorial District Administers Decisive Defeat.

J. J. MITCHELL TRIUMPHS

MARLBORO, Nov. 7.—Senator Harris C. Hunter, who was seized against the Overtime bill, was defeated for re-election in the Fifth Middlesex District by 281 votes. His place goes to Representative John J. Mitchell, the Democratic nominee. Mr. Mitchell carried Marlboro by 802 votes.

The city gave John B. Moran the big goat vote piled up here for a Democratic candidate for Governor. He carried the city by 563 votes, and E. Gerry Brown, for Lieutenant-Governor, by 478.

The significance of Labor's rebuke to Senator Hunter will be best understood when it is explained that the district which yesterday turned him down by 281 votes elected him a year ago by a majority of 2,733. Mitchell is the first Democrat ever sent to the Senate from this district. The vote was:

Mitchell—Marlboro 1822, Waltham 1763, Hudson 720, Maynard 440, Concord 340, Wayland 253, Berlin 109, Lexington 108, Sudbury 68, Lincoln 43, Stow 59. Total-5822.

Hunter—Marlboro 958, Waltham 2273, Concord 428, Hudson 371, Maynard 293, Belmont 305, Lexington 112, Sudbury 293, Stow 98, Lincoln 81, Wayland 189. Total-5573.

TO AID CARMEN OUT ON STRIKE

A concert and dance to aid the 200 striking carmen employed in the Allston shops of the Boston & Albany Railroad will be given to-night in Braintree Hall, Brighton. It is expected that a big crowd will attend as an expression of sympathy for the strikers and their cause.

The strikers have adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the New York Central Railroad, B. & A. division, having refused to grant the demands of the car workers for an increase of 15 per cent. in their wages and the abolition of the piecework system, by posting a notice declaring the shops closed indefinitely, thereby locking out men, and forcing them on strike, and

"Using added injury to injustice by blacklisting us in all the railroad shops, we desire to say that we are determined to win and will remain united to the end.

$5,000 BLAZE IN CARRIAGE FACTORY

HAVERHILL, Nov. 7.—Fire in the blacksmith shop of the Haverhill Carriage factory at Merrimac caused $5,000 damage. At one time it was expected that the entire plant would be destroyed, a strong wind sweeping the flames from the blacksmith floor through the trimming and body departments to the roof, from which the firemen succeeded in checking it.

Happiness in a Tablet

Perfect Health for Every One Procured At Small Cost.

How many times have you sat down at your meals absolutely disgusted at the thought or sight of anything to eat?

How many times have you sat down at your meal without the least sense of appetite, but just because it was "time to eat?"

How many times have you felt a gnawing, unsatisfied "still-hungry" feeling in your stomach, even after you were through eating?

How many times have you felt that "lump of lead" on your stomach after eating, whether your meal was well cooked or not?

And how many times have you suffered a whole lot of other things from your stomach that you couldn't explain, but that made you grouchy, miserable, cut-o'-sorts and generally sour on everybody and everything?

It is safe to say you couldn't tell. You don't keep track of those things. But you know you've suffered them. You probably have had them for a long that they've become a habit with you, and you have come to the conclusion that your fate is to suffer them indefinitely and perhaps forever.

And so men, much like horses, standing unhitched at the hitching post, think they're tied, and so their habit makes them prisoners.

But no one need have dyspepsia, nor indigestion, nor loss of appetite, headache, irritation, burning sensations, heartburn, nausea, eructations, bad memory, loss of vim and vigor and the happiness that comes from a healthy stomach and a good appetite if he will only leave his old hitching post and tie himself to a new one, one that will hold him to health, joy, ambition and a clear mind and memory, and the sunshine that comes with them.

That indeed is Heaven. And you can get it in a little tablet already prepared for the purpose, in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, those little cherubs of health and delight found in thousands of homes today. Listen—one ingredient of one of Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets will digest for you 3,000 grains of food.

This relieves your stomach of the work of digesting until your stomach can get strong and healthy again. Your stomach has been overworked and abused. It's fagged out. It needs a rest.

Let Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do the work of your stomach. You will be surprised how fine you'll feel after eating, and how fastidiously good everything will taste to you. That's because the Tablets are thoroughly digesting the food which your stomach couldn't digest before.

Have these tablets on your dining table, and take one or two after every meal without fail. Then you will realize as never before that the human stomach decides for every man whether he will go forward or backward—and besides, you'll forget you ever had a stomach to torment you.

CASTELLANE ATTACKS NAME OF COUNTESS IN DIVORCE DEFENSE

Startling Insinuations Made by Boni in Paris Proceedings.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—In the Castellane divorce suit to-day it was brought out that Count Boni, in his defence as outlined in the documents filed by him, makes astounding insinuations against his wife. Some intensely interesting correspondence that passed between the Count and Countess after their separation, when Boni was begging for forgiveness, was also referred to.

A sensational charge made against Boni was that one of the documents presented by him is a forgery.

The papers show that Boni, in April, wrote to Countess Anna saying he, too, intended to apply for a divorce. Indiscretions of a most astounding nature were made against the little American woman. Boni declared he was acting in the interest of their children.

Boni Denies All.

Three points are made by Boni. First, he denies in toto the allegations made against him, and says the statements of servants relating to his actions are false. He invokes his rights as a father, and also pleads the necessity of his maintaining his position.

M. Crupp, counsel for the Countess, declared that this third point recuts Boni's whole notice, putting his case in a position he leads only. He denounced Boni in scathing terms for his apparent determination to insist upon a public trial of the case.

Although not attending the sessions of the court, the countess is still in Paris. She has been much in evidence of late, and ever since the day of her advent in France, her friends say, has she looked so well and so merry, happy and carefree.

Her sister Helen, the distinguished American philanthropist, is with her in the hour of trial, and by her greatness is of as much aid to the countess as could be a regiment of lawyers.

It has been set forth that Count Boni spent $700,000 a year, while his American wife was allowed $60,000 per month pin money out of her own funds.

Withdraws Her Offer.

M. Crupp wound up his speech by announcing that the Countess withdrew the propositions she has made to Boni for a financial settlement, in view of her husband's refusal to agree to her offer of an annual income of 150,000 francs, with a million in cash for the payment of his debts, while she assumed all the obligations of the household and her own individual debts.

The attorney created a laugh by saying the case has been nicknamed in Paris "The Panama Crash of Society Women."

Maître Bonnet, representing Boni, made no effort to whitewash his client's conduct, but declared that the facts in the case have been misrepresented and distorted.

Bonnet emphatically denied the truth of the charge that Boni had struck his wife. He denounced this charge as slander. An affidavit will be produced, he said, establishing that Countess Anna's attorneys repeatedly paid sums of money to janitors, servants and poor people and made efforts to them for evidence in support of the countess's suit.

REPUBLICANS HOLD CONGRESS BY GOOD LEAD

Returns Show Majority of 56, With 20 Districts to Hear From.

MANY DEMOCRATIC GAINS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Roosevelt's appeal for a Republican Congress was not all in vain. With the count still going on, the result so far shows the election of 211 Republican congressmen and 155 Democrats, with twenty districts to be heard from. There are 386 seats to be filled in the House, and should the Democrats get the remaining twenty they would still not have the control.

The most sanguine prediction put out by Chairman Sherman was that the Republicans would retain control of the House by fifty. This is a rundown from the Republican majority of 112 in the present Congress.

As the returns stand now, the Democrats have gained 21 districts held in the present Congress by Republicans, as follows: Illinois, 2; Indiana, 1; Iowa, 1; Missouri, 4; Nebraska, 1; New Jersey, 1; New York, 1; North Carolina, 1; Ohio, 3; Pennsylvania, 5, and Wisconsin, 1.

Defeated Men in States.

In Illinois the defeated Republicans are Reeves and Dickson of the Twenty-first and Twenty-third districts; in Indiana, Cromer of the Eighth; in Iowa, Lacey of the Sixth; in Missouri, Pulkerson of the Fourth, Ellis of the Fifth, Nelson of the Seventh and Cankins of the Fifteenth; in Nebraska, Kennedy of the Second; in New York, Pickett of the Ninth; in North Carolina, Blackburn of the Eighth; in Ohio, Southerland, who beat Grosvenor for the Republican nomination, in the Eleventh; in Wisconsin, Babcock of the Third District; in Pennsylvania, Dale of the Tenth, Palmer of the Eleventh and Samuel of the Sixteenth.

The Republicans gained the Third Kentucky District, where A. B. James defeated Representative J. M. Richardson. This is the only Republican gain so far reported.

Speaker Cannon received his usual 15,000 majority and comes back to Congress for the seventeenth time. The fight against Representative Dandell of Pittsburg was futile, as Mr. Dandell is re-elected with a reduced majority.

Wadsworth Defeated.

Mr. Wadsworth, who is chairman of the House committee on agriculture, was defeated by Peter A. Porter, who announces himself first as an independent republican and attacked Mr. Wadsworth's record on the Nebraska Democratic ticket. He was indorsed by both the Democrats and Independence parties.

J. W. Babcock for several campaigns has been the leading Republican in the Republican Congressional fight. His defeat in Wisconsin is considered particularly noteworthy.

Congressman Gilbert H. Hitchcock, Democrat, has achieved victory over Representative Kennedy, Republican, in the Second Nebraska District. This breaks the present solid Republican rank in that State.

The only district the Republicans had in North Carolina, the Eighth, represented by Spencer Blackburn, has elected Richard N. Hackett, Democrat.

Roosevelt Gratified.

President Roosevelt was decidedly interested and gratified over the Congressional returns. He returned from Oyster Bay, where he went to vote, shortly after 8 p.m. Arrangements had been made to supply the White House with election returns, and the President invited Secretary Root, Assistant Secretary Bacon, Secretary Loeb and Assistant District Attorney Cooley to be his guests during the evening.

The only likelihood of a change in the United States Senate is in Idaho, where incomplete returns indicate that a Republican Legislature has been elected, in which event, Senator Dubois, Democrat, would be retired.

RHODE ISLAND ELECTS HIGGINS GOVERNOR

GRANGER RETURNED TO CONGRESS AND THE DEMOCRATS GAIN IN LEGISLATURE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.—Mayor James H. Higgins of Pawtucket, Democrat, has defeated Governor George H. Utter, Republican, for re-election by a plurality of 3,238, according to complete unofficial returns. The rest of the Republican State ticket is probably elected.

Republicans control the General Assembly, which is to choose a United States Senator to succeed George Peabody Wetmore. In the 1st Congressional district, D. L. D. Granger, Democrat, was elected over Edwin Baker, Republican, by 727 plurality. A. B. Capron defeated Lucius F. C. Garvin, Democrat, by over 2,000. For Governor, Utter had 31,864, against Higgins' 33,102.

The vote on the remainder of the gubernatorial candidates resulted as follows: Heime, Pro., 823; Moran, Soc. Lab., 2461; Carpenter, Soc., 315.

The following Republican officers on the State ticket are believed to be returned: Lieutenant-Governor, Frederick H. Jackes; Secretary of State, Charles P. Bennett; attorney-general, Walter A. Read.

The General Assembly will consist of 29 Republicans and nine Democratic Senators, and the House will be made up of thirty-five Republicans, thirty-four Democrats, one Citizen, one Union Associate and one Independent.

The Providence mayoralty swung from the Republican to the Democratic column, P. J. McCarthy defeating Charles W. Lippitt, and the entire city government is Democratic, with the exception of W. W. Clark for city treasurer.

Eben Archambault, Democrat, a former Governor, succeeds Aram Mott of Woonsocket; Robert A. Kenyon, Republican, Central Falls mayor, succeeds W. Prentiss, Republican, for chief executive.

GOVERNOR UTTER'S CONGRATULATIONS TO HIGGINS ON VICTORY

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 7.—Governor-Elect Higgins today received the following telegram

"Hearty congratulations on debate evidence of confidence shown in people in you. GEORGE H. UTTER, Governor."

WARMLY GREET THE KNEISELS

Self-exiled from Boston in the wilds of New York, the Kneisel Quartette was welcomed by a fervidly friendly audience in Mendelssohn Hall last night at the first concert of its twenty-second season here. The warmth of the greeting was fully warranted, for the quartette in its own two members, Schubert's posthumous quartette in D minor and a quartette in A major by R. Gilere, a piece that was new here, showed that absence in Gotham had in no wise dulled the keen edge of its artistic skill or marred the beauty of its euphony.

The quartette was aided by the young Russian pianist, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, who returns to America for a tour after some years' absence. He assisted in Beethoven's trio for piano, violin and 'cello in E flat major, op. 70, No. 2. His work was brilliant where he had opportunity to display his metric, while his part in the ensemble was taken at all times with most pleasing effect.

The next concert of the quartette takes place on December 4.

HETTY GREEN HIDES IN HUB

Mrs. Green declares that she is here to rest, but there is a civil suit in the local courts in which Mrs. Green is interested, and it is declared by a number of lawyers that it is this that has brought her here and that she will stay until it has been heard.

Cocoa beans grow in pods on the trunk and limbs of a delicate tropical tree. They contain six times more food value than beef.

We use the highest cost beans that are grown and there is nothing in our cocoa but cocoa.

That is why it is the most delicious of COCOAS.

PARENTS SEEK BOY, MISSING OVER A WEEK

Nearly frantic over the disappearance of fifteen-year-old George Stanton, who left his home, No. 42 Troy street, South End, more than a week ago, leaving no trace of his whereabouts, Mr. and Mrs. John Stanton, the boy's parents, are searching the city in the hope of finding him.

The boy's parents are firm in their belief that the boy was induced to leave home by a stranger, whom he often spoke of as a man who wanted to hire him to start on the road peddling.

The boy is fifteen years old, and small for his age. He was dressed in a dark suit, with black golf cap and white blouse, knee pants and light string tie.

HERMIT TRIES TO KILL SELF IN HIS CABIN

PITTSFIELD, Nov. 7.—Living alone in the little cabin in the mountainside in Lanesboro, Clark Hope, seventy years old, tried to commit suicide last Saturday by cutting his throat with a razor. He was discovered by Dean Newman of Lanesboro, not himself. A doctor was called and found that the wound would be fatal. Hope will not speak, but still conscious. He and his cabin is a marked object since last Saturday.

Hope has lived a hermit's life in Berkshire for thirty years. His little cabin of one room was stocked with provisions for the winter. In his youth he was disappointed in love and went to live in the Lanesboro Mountains.

HOW COUNTRY AT LARGE CAST ITS BALLOTS

Democratic Landslide in Minnesota, While Republicans Suffer Losses in Indiana.

MISSOURI IS RECLAIMED

Election figures from many States are coming in slowly. The latest returns indicate that Michigan, Iowa, South Dakota, Indiana and Wisconsin have rolled up big Republican pluralities, although there was some falling off from the usual vote in Iowa.

Nebraska shows big Republican gains. Ohio also shows Republican gains over last year. The constitution of the new State of Oklahoma will be written by Democrats.

New Mexico and Arizona have voted favorably on the proposition to enter the union jointly as a single State.

Governor Hoch is re-elected in Kansas by a slightly reduced majority.

Montana has been carried by the Republicans and Texas takes its usual place in the Democratic line.

Democrats Win in Nevada.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 7.—Bartlett, Silver, for Congress, leads Smith by a safe majority. Reports from the State indicate a complete victory for the Democratic Silver party.

Michigan Republican 100,000.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Returns from all sections indicate the election of Warner, Republican, for governor, by 100,000. Every Republican Congressman is elected and the Legislature will be solid Republican.

Republicans Carry Washington.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 7.—The Republicans have carried Washington. W. I. Humphrey, W. L. Jones and Francis W. Cushman, Congressmen-at-large, all Republicans, are returned. The House of Representatives and Senate will be strongly Republican.

Democrats Claim Idaho.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 7.—Chairman Johnson of the State Democratic Committee declares that the Democrats have elected their governor, secretary of State and a majority of the Legislature, insuring the election of Senator Dubois.

Utah Goes Republican.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 7.—Republicans in Utah elected their State ticket returning Joseph Howell to Congress and electing Joseph Frick justice of the Supreme Court. In Salt Lake county, where the American Anti-Mormon party made its effort, the result is in doubt.

Wisconsin Republican, 60,000.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—In Wisconsin possibly all the Republican candidates for Congress have been elected except in the sixth district, where Charles H. Weisse (Rep.) is re-elected. Returns indicate the election of the entire Republican ticket by 50,000.

Light Vote in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 7.—The total vote in Mississippi will hardly reach 80,000. The solid Democratic delegation is returned to Congress: First, E. S. Chandler, Jr.; second, Thomas Spright; third, E. C. Humphreys; fourth, Wilson S. Hill; fifth, Adam M. Byrd; sixth, Eaton J. Rowell; seventh, Frank A. McLean; eighth, John Sharp Williams.

South Dakota Republican.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 7.—Crawford (Rep.), is elected Governor and the entire Republican State ticket wins by a plurality exceeding 25,000.

One Change in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7.—The entire Louisiana delegation in Congress is re-elected with but one change. George W. Farrot (Dem.), was elected to succeed Samuel Robertson (Dem.), in the Sixth District. The vote throughout Louisiana was extremely light.

Republicans Win in Penn.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Edwin S. Stuart (Rep.), carries the State including Philadelphia by 100,000 plurality. Samuel P. Rotan (Rep.), carries Philadelphia by 50,000. The State shows a clean sweep for Republicans over the Lincoln party and the Democrats.

Democratic Landslide in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 7.—Incomplete returns give Johnson, (Dem.), for governor a big plurality over Cole (Rep.). J. W. Lawson, manager of the press bureau of the Republican State Central Committee, has wired the Cole people in the State that the election was a landslide for Johnson.

Republican Loss in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—The Republicans claim Indiana by from 8,000 to 14,000 for the State ticket. This shows a heavy Republican loss.

To Send Dryden Back to Senate.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 7.—State returns indicate that the Republicans will have forty-four members of the House of Assembly and the Democrats sixteen. This will give the Republicans a majority on joint ballot of fifty-nine and make certain the election the re-election of John F. Dryden to the United States Senate.

Republican Senator from Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 7.—The Republicans have carried Delaware and elected Burton for Congress over Marvel (D.). They will also control the Delaware Legislature that will elect a successor to United States Senator Allee.

California Republican.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The indications are that Gillett (R.) for Governor, has carried the city by a small majority. Returns from the interior show that Gillett is running strong in places that were thought to be overwhelmingly for Bell.

Democrats in Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 7.—Patterson (D.), for Governor, has received a total of one year majority in middle Tennessee, which indicates his election by 45,000 to 50,000.

NEW C. L. U. HEAD THINKS STRIKES UNNECESSARY

President Arthur Huddell Says Perfect Organization Would Insure Settlement of Labor Disputes by Arbitration.

ARTHUR H. HUDDELL

NEW HEAD OF BOSTON C. L. U.

A believer in arbitration, and holding firmly the conviction that most, if not all strikes can be obviated through a perfect organization of the workmen, Arthur H. Huddell, the new president of the Boston Central Labor Union, starts out in his position with a determination to add to the prestige of the labor movement in Greater Boston.

One of the first things that the new president will address himself to will be to bring every building trade under one central body. Mr. Huddell was one of those who were most instrumental in the formation of the Building Trades Section of the Boston Central Labor Union. Discussing this phase of the case, President Huddell said:

To Bring Builders Together.

"Through this building trades section we hope to cement the building trades of Boston closer than they have ever been, and bring about a perfect organization. The example of other cities in this direction should be followed. The benefits to be derived from such an organization must be apparent to all.

"The only way the building trades will ever be successful is to stand together and be in a position to demand that which rightfully belongs to them. With any employers difficulties can be settled by arbitration. There is a certain class of employers, however, with whom it is necessary to use drastic measures.

"I firmly believe that by a perfect organization strikes can be obviated, because then you will be in a position to treat with the employers. It is only through a lack of organization that friction is caused. By standing together trade disputes would be settled among ourselves before the building with the employers is reached.

"The Boston Central Labor Union is one of the best central bodies in the United States, and I respect it. In the event of a general as a conservative labor organization, it will be my object to preserve the good name that has been established, and, if possible, to add to the prestige of the labor movement in Greater Boston."

Knows Boston Field Well.

Mr. Huddell is thoroughly acquainted with industrial conditions in Greater Boston, having been a delegate to the Central Labor Union for several years, and serving on many committees to settle difficulties during that time.

Born in Danvers, Mass., in 1860, he first joined a labor organization in the eighties, being employed as a steam engineer at Salem. He belonged to Mixed Assembly No. 5,514, Knights of Labor, and took part in the great strike on the coal docks in Salem about 1886.

Mr. Huddell is a member of the Sons of Vetrans. He is serving his second year as the International Union of Steam Engineers has been president of Boston, including the Portable Engineers' Union No. 4 for four years, and was president of the State Branch of Steam Engineers for four consecutive terms.

Mrs. Geyer of Philadelphia benched nine Pekinese spaniels, including the first litter Air Wiggin was struck by a bullet.

"OVERTIME" HILTON WAS SNOWED UNDER

Man Called Away From a Labor Crisis by a Bogus Te'e-gram Badly Beaten.

JOHN J. McMANMON WON

LOWELL, Nov. 7.—State Senator Horace H. Hilton, who was called home to Lowell by a fake telegram last Winter when the Overtime Bill was up for final consideration on Beacon Hill, is elected to stay at home permanently. The Eighth Middlesex Senatorial District decided to send Representative John J. McManmon to take Hilton's place. McManmon will be present whenever a people's bill is up for consideration. His vote topped Hilton's by 1,175.

The complete returns are as follows:

	Hilton.	McManmon.
Ward 1	697	820
Ward 2	1,062	1,262
Ward 3	971	548
Ward 4	1,295	1,053
Ward 5	531	901
Ward 6	540	1,000
Ward 8	755	604
Billerica	14	14
Chelmsford	334	282
Dracut	194	270
Dunstable	34	10
Tewksbury	185	61
Tyngsboro	254	146
Westford	119	59
Wilmington	198	49
Tyngsboro	49	37
Totals	5,450	6,911

Outgoing Senator defeated Hilton, in spite of the fact that a Senatorial district has hitherto invariably made over to fit his personal needs. The gerrymander included four or five towns to the Lowell wards. Four of the towns did all that was expected of them, notably Pepperell, Chelmsford, Groton, Shirley and Townsend, but all that they could do was of small avail against the McManmon plurality of 1,061 in seven Lowell wards.

In this campaign, Hilton, a Boston & Maine employe, had affected to disregard the attitude of organized labor. He felt sure that the Republican towns could take care of him. His successful opponent is a florist and decorator who has more than once before been successful in a Republican district.

VACCINATE EIGHTY IN JAIL; TEN SMALLPOX.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 7.—The Penobscot county jail is being fumigated and the eighty prisoners are being vaccinated because Joseph Kelley, who was released from that institution a few days ago, is ill with smallpox.

WADSWORTH, BEEF TRUST MAN, BEATEN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Congressman James Wadsworth (Rep.), of Geneseo, is defeated by Porter (Dem.), by 2,500. Wadsworth is the man who championed the Beef Trust when the inspection bill was before Congress.

REPUBLICANS WIN OUT IN CONNECTICUT

Elect Governor, 5 Congressmen and Majority in Both Houses of Legislature.

COMING G. O. P. BOSS LOSES

Special to the Boston Americas.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from the 168 towns in Connecticut give Woodruff, Republican, for Governor a plurality of 20,664, as against 25,000 for Roberts two years ago. The remainder of the State ticket is elected by approximately the same majorities.

In this city, Frank Butterworth, the old Yale fullback, was elected State Senator on the Republican ticket. Everett Lake, the old Harvard fullback, is elected Lieutenant-Governor by about 20,000.

Congressman-at-Large George L. Lilley, of Waterbury, is re-elected by a majority of 21,000. Four other Congressmen are elected by the Republicans—Henry, Sperry, Higgins and Hill.

Two hundred and sixteen Republican members of the lower house and seventy Democrats have been elected, there being one tie in the town of Cromwell, nevertheless creating a special election. This is a greatly increased representation of Democrats in the House, only thirty-six Democrats being elected two years ago.

Senator Allen W. Paige, of Bridgeport, who was regarded as the coming Republican leader of the State, was defeated by Archibald McNeil by 124 votes.

The State Senate is composed of twenty-six Republicans and nine Democrats.

TURBINE SHIP OFF ON INITIAL TRIP

The new turbine passenger steamer Governor Cobb left for her first trip to St. John today, and as she pulled out of the harbor, she was given a long salute and godspeed by all the steam craft in the harbor. On the outward trip, the Governor Cobb met the gunboat Newport just arriving home from San Domingo, and salutes were exchanged.

The End of the World.

The earth is constantly undergoing a cooling process. At one time it was a luminous body, but by degrees a crust formed, and in course of time vegetation and animal life became possible. When these cease the body the entire system gradually dies up and the organs refuse to perform their functions. The blood stagnates and becomes clogged with impurities, producing pimples, boils, carbuncles, scrofula, sores, complaints, catarrh, etc. Thirty days' treatment $5. All druggists.

GETS GEM FOR FINDING DIAMONDS

Landsdale, Pa., Nov. 7.—When Warren Ebert, a brakeman on the 12:38 train through this place, turned over to the railway officials a suitcase which had been left on the train and saw thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry when the officials opened the case in an endeavor to trace the owner, he gasped.

To-day he is all smiles. The suitcase was the property of a Market street (Philadelphia) jeweler, who had left the train in a hurry, forgetting to take the suitcase with him. The jeweler sent Ebert a diamond shirt stud, worth about $100, as a reward.

CAT PULLS TRIGGER; BABY FATALLY SHOT

Harpster, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Charles Tisel's baby was fatally injured and his aged mother was seriously wounded in an accident caused by their pet cat. The cat attempted to climb up the curtain of the window in the kitchen, caught its claws in the cloth, and in its struggles one of its paws struck the trigger of a shotgun which Tisel supposed unloaded, and which he had left leaning against the wall near the window.

The gun was loaded and cocked, and was discharged, part of the charge striking the baby in the back of the head and some of it lodging in the arms, breast and face of Mrs. Tisel, who was kneading bread in the kitchen. The baby cannot recover.

The Morning's Mourning

As George Ade says, in his new opera, "Ki-Ram:"

"It is no time for mirth and laughter
The cold gray dawn of the morning after."

A fur overcoat on your tongue; "hair on your teeth;" a taste "as if a cat had littered in your mouth;" nerves a-tremble; aching hair; a "bust-head of splitting agony;" appetite—none; movement of the bowels—not a sign; present (unwelcome visitor), Gen. R. E. Morse. Never do it again, eh? Oh yes, you will. Remember

"The Devil was sick, the Devil a monk would be.
The Devil got well, the Devil a monk was he."

and a Cascaret three times on the day of misery will make you well. But, for goodness sake, be wise, up to the century, and the next time you go out with the boys, eat too much, drink too much, irritate your stomach, block your bowels, don't forget that you can prevent the "morning's mourning" by taking a Cascaret Candy Cathartic before you go to bed. They work while you sleep and make you awake bright as a new dollar in the morning. Always carry a box in your pocket, and have another on your dresser and another on your night table. Also one lest you forget.

"In your grip—on a trip."

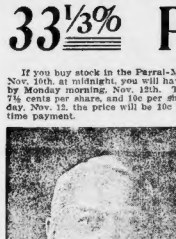
If you buy stock in the Parral-Mexico Mines Co. before Saturday, Nov. 10th, at midnight, you will have made a profit of 33 1-3 per cent. by Monday morning, Nov. 12th. This stock sells this week only at 7½ cents per share, and 10c per share on Monday, Nov. 12. the price will be 10c per share cash, or 12½c per share time payment.

Here is a chance for the small investor to earn a handsome dividend in advance on his investment. Grasp it TO-DAY.



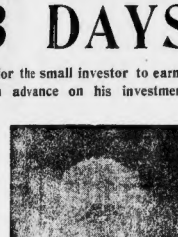
GEORGE W. WILSON, Vice-Pres't. Well Known Chicago Business Man.

THIS IS A REAL MINE

This stock has a tangible value. It represents a property consisting of 6,000 acres of land, upon which is, at least, $200,000 worth of free timber, a perpetual water right and a proven mine, upon which are four true fissure veins; all of these veins lie within a space of 300 feet across, and show plainly on the surface by outcroppings for over a mile on the property. The history of fissure veins in this district shows lie as these do proves that they converge and become ons great mass of ore when greater depth is reached. Upon one vein 500 feet of development work has been done, and other development work has been carried on on other parts of the property.

PLENTY OF RICH ORE READY

The assays of the ore show values up as high as $600 to the ton. The company has a 10 Stamp Mill on the property, which was bought of Messrs. Fraser & Chalmers of this city, and which will be installed, in the neighborhood of $10,000. The Company also has a number of buildings on the property for the housing men and machinery. In addition to a store building where it proposes installing a stock of goods for sale to the miners on our property, and those who work in the mines adjacent to ours. The Company's store should be a very profitable enterprise in itself.



H. A. BOISSAT, President. For Many Years with Libby, McNeil & Libby, Chicago.

A CLEAN CUT PROPOSITION

We want to emphasize once more the fact that this is a legitimate mining proposition; that we are not going to the public at large asking them to subscribe for stock that represents nothing but promises. Just as soon as sufficient money is subscribed we can begin work and when we begin work we can begin taking out bullion. You are not going to be asked to wait four or five years until we discover whether we have a mine or not, then be asked for another long wait while we build a mill, supply machinery and make a start. We have all that already in place.

PROMINENT BANK AS DEPOSITORY.

If you prefer, you are at liberty to make your remittance in payment for stock certificates to our bankers, Messrs. A. W. Jefferis & Co., Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill., who will upon receipt of said remittance, return to you certificates of stock, sealed and signed by the officers of the Company.

We believe that if you will come to our offices, which are at Suite 703, 167 Dearborn St., directly opposite the Public Library, and talk to us this week, that you will buy all of this stock you can pay for. You certainly will if you buy any kind of stock of any kind.

NO POOR MINES IN PARRAL.

Some people are prejudiced against mining stock, but the fact remains that the mines of Parral-Mexico have been a failure in any case where there was ore in sight. They have paid back dollars. We believe that with our present equipment we can earn $1,000 per day. We may earn ten times that, but we can't earn much less than $1,000 per day.

SHOULD EARN $2,000 PER DAY.

Just as soon as we have sufficient money, we shall double the capacity of our present plant, which will give us a daily output of 50 tons, and this should net us not less then $2,000 per day. We are surrounded by some of the richest mines in the world, and are in the richest mining district in the world beyond any question. We have every right to expect that when we are doing 100 tons per day, each month, we will uncover ore of fabulous richness and make earn $25,000 per day.

Don't forget that the price of this stock will advance after Saturday, next. The subscription would be to send your remittance, attached to the Coupon herein printed TO-DAY.

There is no obligation to get our Prospectus, which goes into detail about the property and which we will mail promptly upon request.

If you prefer, you may have your Company, send mail your remittance to-day. If you prefer, you may have your remittance to A. W. Jefferis & Co., Bankers, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Ill., or direct to us.

WEST POINT CAPTAIN COMPARES YALE AND HARVARD ELEVENS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—Yale is stronger than Harvard on the defense, while Harvard's attack is the fiercer, according to Captain Ray Hill, of the West Point eleven, who has clashed with both teams. In a letter to the Yale Daily News he writes:

"I think the Yale-Harvard game at New Haven this Fall will be one of the most closely contested of recent years, for the teams as units are very evenly matched. A fact which makes a comparison this year a trifle more difficult than it ordinarily is the Army team which lined up against Yale was in better condition and stronger in every respect than the one which faced Harvard. Keeping this in mind, I give it as my opinion that Yale is superior on the defense and Harvard on the offensive.

Crimson Backs Outclassed.

The Harvard line, on the whole, was heavier and more powerful than Yale's forwards, but the Crimson backs were in every way outclassed in defensive work. Yale's secondary defense was the best that has been seen at the Point this year. The Yale ends were certainly faster than Harvard's, but they did not seem so sure of their tackles, and had more trouble in preventing gains made by the use of the forward pass. On the whole, they found it more difficult to make our distance against Yale than against Harvard.

"Yale's offense seemed to me weak, considerably weaker than the ground-gaining ability which Harvard displayed. The Harvard backs started faster and helped each other more. Yale was able to make her way down through our line but twice, while we had great difficulty in stopping Harvard's line bucks.

"In the kicking department there is little to choose between the two teams, although Harvard may have a slight advantage. Harvard, however, has no drop-kicker of ability, but only place kicks. I am inclined to think that Harvard had a little the better of the ability.

Yale Fumbles Often.

"In making back punts, I am inclined to think that Harvard had a little the better of it, although frequent fumbles by Yale rendered it difficult to judge her real ability in this line. That brings up another point. Harvard's handling of the ball was very clean, while fumbling marred Yale's work to a marked degree.

"Taken as a whole, if it is possible to judge the strength and weakness of the two teams by three games, I should say that Yale has a defense that is superior to Harvard's, but an offense by no means so strong, while Harvard seems to make more profitable use of the new plays permitted by this year rules."

DINES, QUARTERBACK OF YALE TEAM

SOLID DAY'S WORK FOR HARVARD TEAM

After a good solid afternoon's work, including thirty minutes of hard signal drill at the second team, in which the varsity scored four times on the second eleven, Harvard felt satisfied to go to the training table last night with considerable more confidence in itself and better prospects for Saturday's game against the Indians.

Captain Foster was taken out with the team and ran through signals. Starr did the best work of the day. He followed the ball well, got down the field fast and tackled with a surety that has been somewhat missed on Soldiers Field this season. Waldo Peirce played at right tackle and showed good improvement over his undecided playing day before.

Parker seems much recovered from his injured shoulder and may be able to play against the Indians on Saturday. Lockwood was out in togs again and also may be able to play Saturday. Lincoln was on the field for the first time since he hurt his leg, but was not in togs. He will probably be able to play in the Indian game. Kersberg and Rawlins were given a day's rest, although the former was out to run through signals with the team and do the preliminary work, in which the backs were given some practice in catching punts kicked by Coach Reid. The ends were given their regular work in charging.

Indians Suffer From Boils.

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 7.—Yesterday's practice for the Carlisle Indian football squad was a little more strenuous than that of Monday, owing to the fact that Head Coach Dennie Oliver arrived at the Carlisle school, the ex-Yale centre, Carlo Flanders, also came on the field. Although no scrimmage was indulged in, signals were run through.

Dr. Shoemaker, of the school, discovered that the quarterback, some of Indians are suffering from boils, but he feels that it will not be necessary to keep any of the Indians out of the Harvard game on that account.

Yale Team Coming Around.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—The Yale varsity squad was not pushed very hard yesterday afternoon, although all the regulars except Ted Jones were in the scrimmage. Dhon took the post-box at quarterback and ran the eleven through a number of trick plays in preparation of Saturday.

"JAKE" STAHL ON FIRST BASE FOR AMERICANS

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Jolting from talk by the local baseball wise men to-day, the American League meeting here in December will settle conclusively the cause of the most important trades for players recorded in many a moon.

The Boston American League Club is said to be hot after "Jake" Stahl, manager of the Washington Club. Jake is wanted in Boston to play first base.

Connie Mack, of the Athletics, is just as anxious to get "Jimmy" Collins, ex-manager of Boston, to hold down the third base. Detroit will doubtless bid against Boston for first baseman Hickman, who will be hustling for a man to fill that team's weak spot at third base.

Another trade that is due to fire and may go through will result in Elmer Flick of the Clevelands being let go to the Detroits for McIntyre.

FIGHT TRUST QUARRELLING

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Joe Thomas and Mike "Twin" Sullivan were signed for eight by Morris Levy to appear in San Francisco Thanksgiving eve, November 28, and there is no peace in the fight trust.

Abe Attell, head and front of the Coffroth Britt wing of the quarrelling quartet, declares that Levy agreed with himself not to sign Jimmy Britt and Nick Hyland for November, and that it will be a lightweight battle in place of a feather or no fight at all. How the matter will stand up legally I know not.

Sam Berger, whose championship aspirations were nipped in the bud, had a hard luck in commercial lines. He has purchased a clothing establishment just a stone's throw from Eddie Graney's "thirst parlor."

TRACK MEN OF SCHOOLS MEET

Plans are already being started by the Boston Interscholastic Athletic Association for its indoor track and field season, and at a meeting of the organization held at the English High School, Montgomery street, yesterday afternoon, the constitution and by-laws were gone over. The following schools were represented: English high, Mechanic Arts and Brighton High Schools. It was decided to leave the election of officers and other matters preparatory to the season until the next meeting, when a larger representation of the schools will be present. The next meeting will probably be held in the early part of January.

RUN BASES EITHER WAY IS KID ELBERFELD'S PLAN

The improved baseball game suggested by "Kid" Elberfeld some weeks ago has been tested by Joe McGinnity, who is now training the young men's baseball team at Princeton, and the Iron Man is enthusiastic.

"Run the bases either way and increase the science," is the meat of the scheme which Elberfeld and McGinnity are foster-ing.

Here is the idea in a nutshell:

When the first baseman is in losing comes to the plate, he shall have the right to run to first or third, as he pleases, keeping the selection to himself until he starts. Each succeeding batter in that inning is compelled to run the same way.

"The secret," explains Elberfeld, "the first man who played baseball, and the fellows who developed on the nine positions, must have been right-handed. That's why should a runner be compelled to run to the right, and why should the short stop be placed between second and third to stop hits by right batters?

"It is a big handicap," argues McGinnity, "for a right-handed batter to run to first base, and it would be equally hard for a left-hander to run toward third.

"Therefore," echoes in Elberfeld, "the batter who comes up first in an inning should have the choice of running either way."

As both Elberfeld and McGinnity argue, it would certainly increase the science of the game, as the first baseman may desire to be able to play third and vice versa, with the third baseman.

For a while the bunters would have a puzzle, as the first and third baseman would be puzzled as to which should play in close, and the second baseman and shortstop wouldn't know which should be ready to cover third or first bag when the third or first baseman went in to field the ball. Now, wouldn't that be a pretty mix-up?

Another advantage in this new game, Elberfeld maintains, would be the effect it would have on the "coward If the game was close.

The fan would be in a continuous state of anxiety trying to figure out which way the batter would run.

McGinnity says he has tried it, and it not only causes amusement, but a lot of excitement.

Jack O'Connor likes the Elberfeld idea of running the bases in either direction. Anything to get old Jack to play, he said.

"I find it hard getting to first, and am willing to try to run to third or fly there if they bring an airship or be shot from out of a cannon," said the young man of game. It may help the old boy some. Seriously, I see no objection to trying it and would be glad to have it done. I do not think it would help me go to the base and I have been playing the old game for almost 20 years now, man and boy."

ARABIAN HORSES NOT A BIG SUCCESS HERE

Homer Davenport's journey to the Syrian desert this year in search of the perfect Arabian horse results to old time turfmen a similar disappointment to many that made by another American artist, A. Keene Richards, a wealthy Kentucky breeder, who received the idea of improving the speed and stamina of the thoroughbred by a liberal infusion from the "courser of the desert," which, according to popular belief, in Arabia was the original source of all the superior qualities of the modern racehorse.

To get the best Arab strain for his breeding experiment Mr. Richards visited Arabia, and to assist him in selecting horses for the purpose made the perfect acquaintance and speed lines he took with him the celebrated Arab judge, E. Dayton Tyer literally lived with the desert tribes until they had obtained the horses they wanted, and when Mr. Richards returned to America with the fruits of the expedition it was with full confidence that he was about to revolutionize the breeding of racehorses. The experiment proved to be a complete failure, and the half-bred offspring resulting from the cross of the thoroughbred with the Arabians were sold out by the Sheriff at the prices of common ponies after which, according to popular belief, not by straight thoroughbreds in races.

Randolph Huntington, of Long Island, spent a fortune trying to establish a breed of trotters by crossing Arabs with harness horses of the Clay family, and though he succeeded in producing some beautiful animals, none ever gained much prominence in harness racing, and the experiment proved could do that some other horse specially bred for the purpose could not do better.

Notes of the Harness Horses

One of the latest local stables to go into Winter quarters is John F. Fitzgerald's. Dan Patch, 2:04¾; Baron Pitch, 2:18¾, and Alcora S., 2:19¼, he has at S. Walter Wainer's Beacon Park Stable, while John Robin is attending to the others at his home farm. Dan Patch is expected after the Grand Circuit, and gives every indication of being a better 4-year-old than ever.

Some of the speedier performers has come more prominently to the front with a rush than has Billy Bindle, he having gotten every mile in 2:20 or better for Proprietor Irving Cobb. Heading the list are Bindle, who has got to be held down while quarters to close to 32 seconds are planked in with a consistency worthy attention.

Ex-President A. S. Gladney of the Dorchester Club feels that he is now entitled to credit of having taught Kingo Direct to trot inside of a gait. Three times have the two met against the field, and three times has Direct won. The first time Kingo was got to be held back while quarters to close to 32 seconds are planked in with a consistency worthy attention.

Walter J. Bates of Dorchester intends breeding Bonnie Direct 2:06, to his stallion Bingalia, 2:23¼, to the Spring of 1907. Bates thinks that the cross will be a success, and the produce from the strong trotting lines of the sire and dam should be a fast one. As to that Emma K. is bred on trotting lines.

How well the Metropolitan Park Commissioners attend to their duties in the speedway decision is shown by the building of the new stabling and finishing posts at the Charles River course. It will be a vast improvement for the officials over past years during the severe weather.

After Thrice Flooring Him in Two Rounds MURPHY BEAT CULLEN

Facing the greatest boxer fighter of modern times, Tommy Murphy, the peerless Harlem featherweight, Dick Cullen, the Frisco boy, went down to defeat in the second round of their contest at the Lincoln A. C. last night.

The short time the bout lasted brought out the facts that the Wonderful Murphy is not yet through with his best battle, that he is still a mighty fine sailor, and that Cullen is one of the gamest boys ever seen in the ring.

Twice Cullen was knocked down in the second round from the tremendous punches of the New Yorker, but each time he arose and mixed the fighting, forcing Murphy to break ground, as the sudden onslaught was unexpected and took the fans by storm. But Murphy soon got to his speed again and recovering himself quickly got his fists flying on Cullen's jaw, and the third time he went down he was counted out.

It was lightning speed that Murphy had rapped up in his mitts and there was power behind every time he landed, and he never missed anything.

Murphy never gave such a clever exhibition of the Queensberry game in a short space of time. His footwork was perfect. He measured every punch and slipped them by faster than the boy could follow.

His left hand work proved Cullen's undoing. He landed Cullen's right eye in the first round, raising a large "mouse," and it bothered him every time he came up for the second session. Murphy saw the advantage gained and kept his left working for the spot, and reached the jaw, following on with a right cross which took Cullen off his feet. He got the same reception when he arose at the count of nine and struck the mat, very few thinking he would come to the scratch again. But he responded and tore into Murphy, driving him back. The spurt lasted only a fraction of a minute, and in that brief period Murphy rained on hooks to the head which Cullen withstood till a right cross caught him on the jaw and a heavy right in its wake sent the game boy's senses reeling and that time Murphy had the round nearly completed.

When Cullen considered that Cullen matched with Murphy with only a week's training and the latter had spent several weeks under the direction of a stellar general as Frank Kree, the eight-weight champion, he blinded the boy's ability was somewhat lessened.

Murphy was hardly fit to go against such a whirlwind offence as Murphy had to show, yet he was perfectly willing to carry the fight to his opponent and time and again Cullen's eyes would close before the relentlessness of his rushes. He never flinched from taking the severest of jolts and fights which Murphy crowded on his head, but kept mailing in, trying to land with the knockout punch which he carried.

At the finish Cullen was travelling he could have licked any featherweight in his class, as he was primed for a contest with anybody.

Both boys weighed in at 133 pounds, with Cullen under a catch at making the mark at short notice, while Murphy, trained to the minute, was only shy a couple of pounds.

At the first stop Murphy resorted to his favorite trick of jolting in the clinches with stiff arm jabs, and smashed his left on Cullen's head, keeping up the operation. Cullen took the limitation at leading and whipped his left with effect on Murphy's body, but received a crack on the jaw in return. Murphy pulled away from another left to the head and Cullen fell short. He persisted and landed left on Murphy's body, battering down a guard left by ploughing in. He slammed left on body again and Murphy, driving him back, the spurt lasted only a fraction of a minute, and in that brief period Murphy rained on hooks to the head which Cullen withstood till a right cross caught him on the jaw and a heavy right in its wake sent the game boy's senses reeling and that time Murphy had the round nearly completed.

Cullen started to set the pace in the second round, but Murphy stopped him with another left to the head and caused him to cover up. As soon as he set Murphy was at him, depositing on the guards with a shower of lefts and rights, and Cullen was blinded by the bombardment. He covered and twice made Murphy break ground from his advance, but he always managed to bang his left on Cullen's head. He caught him just right as Cullen went in and dropped him for the count, and it was evident that Cullen's spell was over. Murphy got up but could not avoid receiving a bunch of left swingers on the jaw which sent him reeling and prostrate.

Woodward and Sammons did good work when Cullen got up for the third time and started in to whale Murphy, getting home a terrific right to the head, but Tommy got into his stride in an instant and applied his left with a mixture of right shots, and Cullen went under.

In the first preliminary, which went the limit of six rounds, Eddie Randolph got the decision over Young Grady after a fierce fight. The semi-final between Johnny Dunn, Murphy's sparring partner, and Young McGrath, of Cambridge, lasted two rounds, when McGrath was counted out.

Jack Sheehan made his appearance as referee in the ring and his work was eminently satisfactory throughout.

VANDERBILT CUP WILL BE SENT TO FRANCE

BY J. C. KERRISON.

France, although not officially represented in the recent Vanderbilt, desires the trophy so that it may be exhibited by the Darracq company at the Paris and London salons. The motor goverring board of that country has made such application to the racing board of the American Automobile Association, as soon as M. Darracq deposits a bond for the trophy it will be delivered over to him by the French Association, which won the race.

Although the French company desires temporary possession of the trophy the automobile club of France has made no statement which will in any way tend to give one an idea as to how it feels regarding the running of the next Vanderbilt. This year, although entries for the race be ready had been subscribed toward the trophy.

By increasing the elegance of the appointments, providing more space and entering strongly, though not absolutely, in the wealthy and fashionable class of motor cars, the race is to go in for the highest grades, the regular automobile show in Madison Square Garden is getting more each year to look like a rolling stock exhibition.

The announcement has been made that for the seventh annual event, to be held at the Garden from Jan. 12 to 19, much more room than ever is to be spent in beautifying the scene, and now it develops that the engineer has managed to introduce 10,000 square feet additional room by making the elevated platform over the arena back to the right front wider. Another innovation for the visitors will be found in a rathskeller, which will be toward the Fourth avenue end of the auditorium.

The Aero Club of America has elected these officers: President, Courtland F. Bishop; first vice-president, Captain Homer Lea; second vice-president, H. H. Morris; third vice-president, Colgate Hoyt; treasurer, Charles Stewart Edwards; secretary, Augustus A. Post; assistant secretary, Ernest L. Jones, and consulting engineer, C. M. Manly. The new board of directors consists of Courtland Field Bishop, Alan R. Hawley, J. C. Mecoy, Captain Hedge and C. J. Edwards.

It was definitely declared to offer a trophy, to be known as the Lahm Cup, in honor of Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm's victory in the International Cup race in Europe in September last, for the longest balloon trip made in America by members of recognized American aero clubs. Contest rules for this trophy were agreed to at the meeting (about 400 miles).

The contest committee of the Aero club of America will meet on the 15th of this month to frame the rules governing the international cup race in the horse show in special prestige. The announcement has been made that for the seventh annual event, to be held at the Garden from Jan. 12 to 19, much more room than ever is to be spent in beautifying the scene, and now it develops that the engineer has managed to introduce 10,000 square feet additional room by making the elevated platform over the arena back to the right front wider. Dorothy Dix Says Flattery Goes a Long Way in the Solving of Domestic Difficulties

Ten Commandments for Married Men

BY DOROTHY DIX

THE seventh commandment of the married man is this:

Thou shalt study thy wife, for lo, woman is easy to work for him who knoweth the secret thereof.

Man has invented, as an excuse and consolation for his many domestic blunders, the fiction that woman is an insoluble enigma—a prize conundrum to which nobody has ever been able to find a definite answer—and that he is, therefore, entitled to give up.

This is an ingenious theory, and it saves the face of the sex that prides itself on its discernment and intelligence, but it is not true.

So far from it being impossible to understand a woman's nature, and the springs from which her actions flow, she is almost childishly easy to comprehend, and never was cause and effect more intimately blended than in her every deed.

If a man does not understand his wife, and if he cannot tell with almost exactness precisely what she will do under certain circumstances, it is because he has never taken the trouble to study her.

Women know men far better than men know women. This is because for ages a woman's comfort and well being has depended upon her ability to manage some man without his knowing it. This has developed an almost abnormal capacity in the sex to size up the particular man with which each woman has to deal, and to gauge all his weaknesses, his strength and peculiarities, and to read at sight his moods and tenses.

Study Your Wife

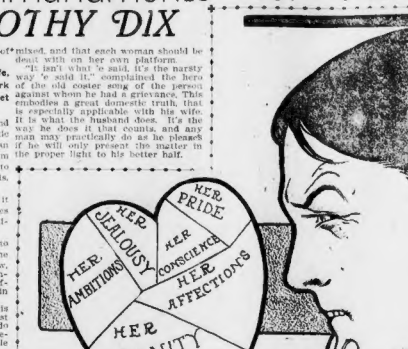
MEN have never thought women worth studying except in the abstract, and then they have only given a few big, crude guesses at the subject, and let it go at that. The result is that the individual man finds himself incapable of coping with the individual woman that he annexes to himself as a wife.

It is his idea before marriage that he will rule by right of merely being the husband. Also by force, but he finds that managing a wife by force is like spanking a baby—a thing which frequently ought to be done, but it takes a brute to do it.

Strangely enough it seldom occurs to a man to start out on a still hunt for the key to his wife's nature, so that he may manage her with comfort to himself and peace to her, just as he is such an instrument lying around loose on the premises, and he can find it if he would only take the trouble to do so.

Therefore, if a young husband wishes to be master in his own house, and to live in harmony with the consent of him study his wife. Some women are to be reached through their affections. Others through their vanity. Others through their ambition. Others through their consciences. Some must be wheedled. Others cajoled, while others must be bossed, but it is essential that the treatment should not be mixed, and that each woman should be dealt with on her own platform.

"It isn't what 'e said, it's the nasty way 'e said it," complained the hero of the old coster song of the person against whom he had a grievance. This embodies a great domestic truth, that is especially applicable with his wife. It is what the husband says and the way he does it that counts, and any man may practically do as he pleases if he will only present the matter in the proper light to his better half.



MAN'S EXCUSE FOR HIS DOMESTIC BLUNDERS—THAT WOMAN IS AN INSOLUBLE ENIGMA

Merely, as an illustration of this take the housekeeping problem. Every man naturally wishes an orderly, frugally well-kept home, and a good dinner to sit down to at night. Unfortunately not every man gets this, but he might have it, if he would study his wife enough to know how to appeal to her, instead of futilely nagging and fretting at her for her lack of domesticity.

What Flattery Does

SUPPOSE he knows that in spite of her shortcoming, she really loves him. Let him appeal to her affection, let him show her that she is sunk in blasting his ideal of her and of home, and my word for it, she will hustle out to the kitchen before he is done speaking.

Does she love praise? Vanity thrives by what it feeds on. Let him flatter her as he eats, and she will lie awake of nights devising delicacies for him.

Is she inclined to jealousy? Let him hold up to her the child's cooking to which he was used before marriage, or, even in extreme cases, let him casually remark upon the perfection of Mrs. Jones's mince pie, and she will do or die to make better than her rival's.

Does she try to do so upon her intellect, let him marvel that a degree in chemistry should not fit a woman to make bread that is not a menace to life and she will appreciate at once the superiority of the college bred cook to the immigration office one.

Should a man have the misfortune to marry a lady with a temper and a tongue, let him handle them with care, and avoid waving before her eyes the subjects that loosen the floodgates of her eloquence.

Is a woman fond of bossing? Ask her advice, and she will be so pleased at being consulted that you may do as you please.

Do you wish to have the privilege of bringing company home unexpectedly to dinner? Tell your wife that her housekeeping is so perfect that you do not feel that she needs to make special preparations. Is your wife suspicious of every other woman? Never by chance praise another woman to her, and when she sings a sister's praise, join not in the chorus.

There is always a chink in every woman's armor, and great is the profit of the husband who finds the vulnerable spot in his wife's character.

She is so easy that a child could handle her.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

GIVE HIM UP

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am keeping company with a young man for six months. He lives in another State, but I visit my old home. The last time I saw him he promised to make a visit up here and be engaged. I have not seen or heard of him as yet. I think the world of him, and I know I could love no other half as well. What would you advise me to do? WAITING.

I DO not think he is worth waiting for. If he has not come during this time he is not likely to come at all. Put him out of your mind and heart. His love cannot be worth anything or he would not have kept you waiting all this time.

B. M.

FIND OUT THE TRUTH

DEAR MRS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a young man for six months, and have learned to love him dearly.

Last week, mother heard stories about him, and told me he was not a desirable companion for me and forbid me to ever see him again. I am heartbroken; he says he is, too. I meet him every day on the street, although I try to avoid him. He also has asked me to run away with him and be married, but I told him I could never marry against my parents' wishes. He seemed downhearted and almost angry, and we parted again. I cannot believe the stories I hear about him. He is honorable and noble.

PERHAPS the stories are not true, but you must obey your mother until you can prove that you are old enough to be the judge of your interest, of course, is all for your welfare. The young man was very wrong to urge you to elope, and a man who has any sensible girl and refused. If his character is all right, you may be sure it will be proved so and then things will be all right again.

How to Pick Out a Good Husband

By A Bachelor

NOTWITHSTANDING a great deal of nonsense talked by discontented people about the "scarcity of men" of their fellow people in these degenerate days, there are as many kind hearts in the world to-day as there ever were, and they hold their own against the increasing stress of the "do or die" competition, which is held by many to be the cause of modern selfishness.

At the same time, all the people who talk most about the so-called selfishness of other people are not exactly the smart who will break their own necks to help a lame dog over a stile, or who will go a mile out of their way to do a fellow-creature a good turn.

These are the sort of people who will not give a penny to a starving man for fear of "pauperizing" him, as they call it! It is beautiful to look on the cynical, wise folk are of the poor man's self-respect and of their own pennies. They would sooner see a fellow-creature die than damage his self-esteem by a trickle's worth.

These, too, are the sort of people who are very fond of telling one that charity begins at home, and who set a high value on letting charity even get a peep out at the front door, in case she should catch cold from the chilly world outside.

One of their boasts is that poor charity does not get much fresh air or exercise and often goes into a decline and dies of too much "home, sweet home."

After all there is a beautiful provision of Nature which effectually guards us all against giving away more than we can afford, either in worldly goods or decent feeling.

Yet, happily, the world is full of kindness, and perhaps it is those who have been on the rocks and endured most knocking about at the world's hard hands who best how many kind hearts and hands ready to help there are waiting for every one who hits trouble.

And it is impossible to recall Tenny son's beautiful lines without recalling at the same time some little, unexpected act or kindly action which has leveled an otherwise dull and sombre day of prosaic life.

It is the kind-hearted people who shove the world along.

For kind-heartedness is not the overflow of a heart which is full to the brim as a spring in the desert and overflowing, turns the dusty, harsh world around it into a green and fruitful oasis.

Girls, if your hearts are free and your choice is still to be made, look out for a man of kind heart, and, as Nature did, your blind eye to the telescope if you are inclined to regard the list of the more flashy and spurious qualities which are your human beings are so often given to admire in ourselves and our kind.

Your life's happiness is far too big a proposition to stake on a grand manner and a fancy waistcoat, and you will do well to watch the young man on whom you have bestowed the first flash of your fresh long and closely before you entrust him with more of yourself than a charming smile and permission to carry your portfolio.

The days of knightly chivalry are not gone. They have merely assumed another form.

If you must marry, then marry a young man with a kind heart; he'd going to stay after you, and he will make the best of husband of which you never will have cause to be ashamed.

THE HOUSE OF DOOM

A Romance of Love and Mystery

By GEORGE BARRY BRONSON

CHAPTER XIV.

What He Discovered

WHILE the detective occupied himself with restoring the mistress of the house to consciousness, I stood by watching, and then shaking off my temporary abstraction, awaiting my opportunity, succeeded in transferring the photograph of the dead gambler to my overcoat pocket.

Suddenly the maid, on returning to the room with some water, pointed to a corner, exclaiming:

"Why! Look there, sir."

We all glanced in the direction she indicated, and noticed that from the corner of the room the blue carpet had been torn up and tacked back, disclosing the secret of the flooring.

Quickly I bent down to examine it, and found to my surprise that one of the boards had been cut across about two inches from the wainscoting and was hinged, so that it could be pulled up. There had evidently been a strong fastening which had been forced, for the wood was newly splintered.

After some little difficulty I pulled it up, revealing a small box-like cavity about eight inches wide, well designed in order to hide plate or valuables secretly and securely. I placed my hand down, but could feel nothing. It was empty. The men, whoever they were, knew of that secret hiding place, and had taken whatever it had contained.

I struck a match in order to examine the place more closely, and the others all grouped eagerly around me, when I distinguished at the bottom of the box a further flap, which I lifted, and found something concealed in the false bottom. It was a small red morocco case, about four or five inches square, which I opened very carefully.

Next instant those around me with one breath gave vent to exclamations of surprise and horror. And well they might. The object which the jewel case contained was truly startling. I stood staring at it amazed, then picked up the doctor, and stood with silvyl in the window at Rockery House gazing at it, while with a some fresh mystery or some gruesome problem.

That jewel case contained a most curious and uncommon object, a thing which I had never before seen, and which I am well persuaded, human eye.

The doctor, leaving the unconscious woman's side, took it from me, and putting on his pince-nez, examined it closely and carefully beneath the light.

It was a horrible thing, the white blood-stained, and the pupil a dark leaden gray.

"It's a man's eye," declared the doctor, after long and very careful scrutiny. "It was removed by some person skilled in anatomy and has been treated with some preservative. There's a mystery here," he added, looking around at the scared faces of those grouped around him.

"I wonder if the men wanted to get hold of that?" the policeman suggested, a theory, which Lane and the housemaid at once declared to be a sound one. "At any rate," he added, "I think I'd better report this to the station. They'll certainly want to make some inquiry about that eye."

"For the present I'll take possession of it," said the doctor, replacing the ghastly looking object in the velvet-lined case and closing it with a snap.

Then he returned to Mrs. Parham, who a few minutes afterward stirred slightly, while her eyes quivered.

Again the doctor felt her pulse, and later she opened her eyes, and looked wonderingly around.

"Rhonda quite, madam," the doctor urged in a gentle voice. "Can you speak well?"

"No," she gasped faintly. "I—I don't think I can."

Then her jaws became fixed. She could not conclude the sentence, and lapsed again into unconsciousness.

The policeman had sent Lane round to the police station, and a detective, entering the room, was told what had occurred in the dining room eye.

When he saw it he knit his brows. Like ourselves, he grasped the tragedy, especially as the poor girl Jane was lying dead.

The officer was also shown the secret cavity beneath the carpet. He examined the windows of all the rooms on the ground floor, made a tour of the exterior of the house, and then questioned all the servants.

The absence of the master of the house somewhat puzzled him, for the cook explained that Mr. Parham returned from the country two days before, and remained at home all the afternoon, having evidently a big traveling bag and left again about 7 o'clock, telling his wife that he had to go to Cleveland.

When, a little later, we returned to the drawing room, we found Mrs. Parham propped up with pillows and attended by her maid, her fingers clenched into the palms.

She realized that the secret hiding place of her husband's treasure was known.

"What have they taken?" she gasped, in a low, terrified voice, when at last she found tongue.

"Apparently everything," I replied. "The place is empty."

"Empty!" she echoed, raising herself to her feet with an effort, but reeling instantly back to the couch, for her head was still swimming after the effects of the chloroform administered to her.

"And poor Jane. How is she?"

"My husband is in the country," she explained. "He is very often away, for his business often takes him to New York, to Paris and Amsterdam."

"Does he know you think those men got into the house?" the officers asked. It will be noticed that the latter glass door of the hall was open, so that the men could only be opened from the inside. Therefore, if they left the front door with a false key they could not have passed the inner door.

This fact was interesting, and one which it had carefully noted.

"I have no idea how they could have entered," replied the lady wearily.

"Or perhaps by the servants' entrance," she suggested.

"They couldn't have got in that way," the policeman stated. "We have been all through the kitchen, and Annie was there all the time. Besides, we're always very careful that that door is never left ajar."

"It's evident that they were concealed in the house," I remarked, recollecting that tall, shadowy figure that had crossed the room on tip-toe at the instant that the light had been lowered.

The Hiding Place

"Of course," agreed the detective. "But what we want to know is whether this lady has any suspicion of any one to whom this knowledge would be an advantage? Would any one be likely to be in possession of what was concealed there?"

"I don't know what was in there," she declared, in a weak, nervous voice. "My husband made the place himself a few months ago, as he often has valuable jewelry here. Down town he has a safe, of course, but here he deemed it best to make a secret hiding place, rather than have a fireproof safe, which is always discussed

Study Character and Forecast the Future from the Date of Birth

See If the Old Astrologers Have Formed Rules That Suit Your Own Characteristics

ASTROLOGY was once looked upon as the only scientific means of determining the character of a person, and the caster-down of old marked from nothing more than the knowledge of one's date of birth:

Believing that each of the planets casts an influence over the child born when it was high in the heavens, and that from the position they occupied at the moment of birth the whole character, and, hence, later old-time fortune tellers used to cast a horoscope with the greatest care, and make a plan of where the planet stood at time of birth to foretell the life of the child.

Here are some of the general rules of these old astrologers. It is interesting to read them and compare them with what you know to be facts about yourself:

THOSE who first saw the light from January 18 to February 17 are good-natured, rather quick-tempered, very successful in business dealings, and of a gentle, affectionate nature.

They will be faithful to their marriage vows, though fond of admiration, while their manners will be quiet and dignified.

Those whose natal day happens to be between February 19 and March 20 are of an honorable, kind and straightforward disposition.

They are essentially people who may be trusted, and are often met with in positions involving much responsibility.

They are deeply religious, though apt sometimes to take a gloomy outlook upon sacred things, and are prone to restlessness and change. Journeys between these dates are often great travellers.

Those whose birthday comes between April 21 and May 23 have very strong likes and dislikes, and possess in a great degree strong powers of intuition. They are of a jealous temperament—capable of great mental endurance—are energetic, and very fond of the opposite sex.

If the natal day falls between May 23 and June 23 a restless nature is the decree. Such people are rather unsteady in their aims and pursuits, though of a very lovable disposition. They are often guided by impulse, and have a tendency to be dissatisfied with their position. Socially they are great success, and shine in public life.

The greatest lovers of home life and of family affairs are those who are born between June 22 and July 23. If of fair sex, they are great and good talkers; if men, good business managers, but prudent and of a saving disposition.

Those born between July 24 and August 23 are generally adept at overcoming difficulties in life. They are lighthearted, loving, emotional, love nature, very impulsive, and require to exercise great care in selecting a life partner. Easily cast down and just as easily uplifted, they are influenced very much by their surroundings and the people with whom they live.

The people who were born between August 24 and September 23 are lovers of music, good singers, of a happy, agreeable disposition and admirers of beauty. Whatever work they undertake is done thoroughly well; they make good and rather than follow, and strain every effort to make what they undertake a great success.

They are physically strong and of a very loving character.

People born between September 23 and October 23 should be good inventors, be experts in mechanical matters, and have great foresight in all business transactions. They are hasty, impatient of control, particularly eloquent in speech and very good-natured. They are kind and generous and are excellent friends, but bad foes.

Those whose natal day falls between October 24 and November 23 are of a very passionate nature. They love books like to be praised and considered superior, have strong wills, are dignified and good manners. They are not easily overcome by adversity, and are almost always certain to succeed in whatever they undertake.

Those whose natal day falls between November 25 and December 22 do not easily make friends; they are reserved, brave, fearless. People of action rather than words, very faithful in all love affairs, and of a very determined nature. They make exceedingly faithful husbands and wives, and can be thoroughly trusted.

If the birthday fall between December 22 and January 18 they have been will be fearless in adventure, self-willed, practical and good business people, talkative, fond of having thought ingenious nature, proud and independent. They will love but little and follow, and strain every effort to make what they undertake a great success.

Have Consideration

FOR THE SECOND WIFE

WHEN a widow or widower announces his or her intention of forming new ties there is often much controversy and bitter remarks made by the relatives of the dead, who bitterly resent seeing anyone filling the vacant place.

This is not right, and most unjust to those who have passed away, for true love never destroys the happiness of the beloved, and would not care to see the one once so tenderly loved living a life of desolation and misery for fear of showing disloyalty to the dead.

When two people are married they have joys, comforts, consolations and blessings of a true partner in life, and lost them, can such a thing be wrong if, on three has assuaged the sorrow of the bereaved be sufficient for another true mate?

Then again, should the matrimonial step have turned out a failure, and the union be cursed, does not death remove the shackles, for one desiring to find a true helpmate who will reciprocate the love that is given?

Where, however, a person should stop and consider seriously the wishes of the step contemplated, is when there are sons and daughters.

It is of most important and most essential that the one who takes the place of the dead parent is worthy and fit to do so, otherwise such a step as marriage will be a very disastrous affair.

There is no end of unhappiness, which too often rests around the step-mother or father, is, in the majority of cases, thoroughly undeserved. Many a one who has taken the place of the dead has proved to be equal in loving care to the real parent.

A Moral Victory Over the Power of Predatory Wealth

The Anti-Trust Candidates Won a Surprising Vote, and the First Round of the Battle Gives Encouragement of Future Success

The result of the election in Massachusetts, where Curtis Guild, Jr., and Eben S. Draper were re-elected Governor and Lieutenant-Governor—is a moral victory for the people, although most of the spoils remain in the hands of the special interests.

Mr. Moran is to be congratulated on the flattering vote he received, and Mr. Brown is to be congratulated even more for his greater showing.

The result will not surprise any thinking person who has studied the situation in this State. It would have been an exceptional result if Mr. Moran could have defeated the forces concentrated against him.

All the money in the campaign was in the hands of his opponents. However much good citizens may deplore it, the fact remains that the candidate without funds has small chance against the one whose campaign contributions mount into the hundreds of thousands.

The Republican machine had an amount said to be approximately five hundred thousand dollars with which to convince voters and get them to the polls.

The Republican machine had an efficient, carefully trained and smoothly running organization throughout the State.

The Republican machine had the support of every Trust, every seeker for special legislation, every supporter of corrupt politics who knew that with the election of Mr. Moran his chances of securing the usual privileges from the State would be much lessened.

Neither the Independence League nor the Democratic State Committee had sufficient money to issue the necessary literature, pay the expenses of speakers, or to engage workers to get the vote to the polls.

The Independence League, less than four months old, had no trained city and town organization. The Democratic State Committee, although the city and town committees existed, found scores of them to be entirely under the control of the very trusts and lobby interests to whom the candidate was most bitterly opposed—and consequently working AGAINST the success of the ticket, instead of FOR it.

The most bitter enemies of Mr. Moran were not in the Republican party at all, but in the Democratic ranks.

WILLIAM A. GASTON AND THE ENORMOUS POWER OF THE BOSTON ELEVATED RAILROAD AND ITS ALLIED INTERESTS WERE ACTIVELY ARRAYED AGAINST THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

Every predatory Trust in Massachusetts was against Mr. Moran. It was natural, of course, that they should be. With him in the State House, their ability to take possession of public property would be greatly lessened.

And yet, NOTWITHSTANDING ALL THESE THINGS, MR. MORAN APPEARS TO HAVE RUN AHEAD OF THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE OF LAST YEAR AND OF EVERY OTHER YEAR EXCEPT THE ONE IN WHICH MR. DOUGLAS WAS ELECTED. If the Republican machine had not had unlimited funds which which to get out the RESERVE VOTE, Mr. Moran, as the returns clearly show, would have been elected, notwithstanding all the interests banded against him.

Had the Republican machine polled no more votes than it did last year, Mr. Moran would have been elected.

Boston, the State headquarters of the great Trusts and the home of their political agents, knifed Moran badly. His vote in such cities as New Bedford, Fall River, Lowell and Lawrence is a fair test of his strength with the real Democracy of Massachusetts.

View the figures any way you may, there is one conclusion. MORAN MUST HAVE WON HAD HE HAD AN ORGANIZATION AND THE FUNDS FOR NECESSARY LEGITIMATE CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

It is discouraging to have to admit that a candidate lost BECAUSE HIS OPPONENT HAD MORE MONEY. It does not speak as well for Massachusetts as the State's friends would wish. But as a condition and not a theory it is well to face the facts, however humiliating they may be.

But, after all, this was MERELY THE BEGINNING OF THE FIGHT. You could hardly expect to win in your first year. It was really wonderful, when you consider it, that with all the money and all the organization of the Republican machine, and with all the efforts of the Gaston-Quincy brand of so-called Democrats, that Guild was still able to win by barely THE NORMAL REPUBLICAN PLURALITY.

It shows that thousands of life-long Republicans cared more for PRINCIPLE than for PARTY and voted for Moran.

And, after all, the men who supported Moran and Brown have won more than they realized in their first disappointment.

This year Beacon Hill will be much more honest than last. The returns show that some of the more notorious of the people's misrepresentatives have been defeated for re-election. Those who have squeezed by will be more careful in future how they dispose of the votes their constituents have given them.

The working people's campaign had one effect that will be lasting. It forced Governor Guild to promise, under the lash of his opponent's criticism, that HE WILL SIGN THE OVERTIME BILL NEXT WINTER.

The Dana incident cannot happen during the coming session. NOR ANY OTHER INCIDENT SO SCANDALOUS.

All in all, you in Massachusetts who want better government have made considerable progress this year. This newspaper feels that, notwithstanding the defeat of your principal standard bearer, you are to be congratulated.

The battle for equal rights and against special privileges has but just begun.

It will continue next year, and the year after that, if necessary, and again year after year, UNTIL THE PEOPLE WIN.

PROGRESS

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

In its giving and its getting, in its smiling and its fretting,
In its peaceful years of toiling and its awful days of war,
Ever on the world is moving, and all human life is proving
It is reaching toward the purpose that the great God meant it for.

THROUGH its laughing and its weeping, through its losing and its keeping,
Through its follies and its labors, weaving in and out of sight,
To the end from the beginning, through all virtue and all sinning,
Reeled from God's great spool of Progress, runs the golden thread of Right.

ALL the darkness and the errors, all the sorrows and the terrors,
Time has painted in the background on the canvas of the World;
All the beauty of life's story He will do in tones of glory
When these final blots of shadows from his brushes have been hurled.

A Little Novel of the Frozen North

By Wex Jones

OOKIAK threw a burning glance toward the snow hut of Loony.

Burning as was the look, the intense cold froze it before reaching its destination, and Loony received it as an icy stare.

She responded by handing Ookiak a snowball in the eye, the Eskimo equivalent of the mitten. Overcome with grief, Ookiak wandered off and leaned up against the Pole to meditate upon the fickleness of maidens.

All around him were huge posters advertising the business of members of the tribe. "Desirable ice floe for sale, in lots or acreage," ran one. "Lofty berg to let—ideal spot for country bungalow—unlimited snow available for building purposes," said another. "Excursion to Phoney Island," said an "ad" of the Polar Rapid Transit, "tickets, five seal teeth; five more charged halfway." "It will be right in another month; buy your oil now," ran the Standard Whale Oil Company's "ad."

Turning from these signs of business enterprise, Ookiak saw a balloon rapidly approaching him. A man jumped out with a parachute and kissed the pole.

"I've discovered it!" he yelled.

"Discovered nothing," replied Ookiak. "I've known it was here for the last twenty years."

Oh, the Pole, the beautiful Pole,
How it stirs my whirling soul!

The stranger chanted deliriously.

"Say," said Ookiak, "you can take the Pole home with you if you'll make Loony love me again."

Oh, the Pole, the beautiful Pole,
When I pull it up it'll leave a hole!

raved the stranger.

"Well, you can have the Pole if you want it," said Ookiak.

Oh, the Pole, the beautiful Pole,
When I paint it green it'll look so droll!

yelled the discoverer. "All right," he added, "here's a peek-a-boo waist you can give Loony. That'll win her."

Oh, the Pole, the beautiful Pole,
It'll be my cane when I go for a stroll!

"But the temperature's 99 below, and we all wear furs," objected Ookiak.

"Pooh!" said the explorer. "Try her."

Loony frose on to the peek-a-boo right away and died of pneumonia, but happy in the thought that she was the most stylish girl in the Polar regions.

Ookiak died in grief.

The discoverer got jammed under an iceberg with the Pole, which was lost to the world, and his last bubbling words were:

Oh, the Pole, the beautiful Pole,
I got it, although it took my roll.

It was another tragedy of the North, the great, silent North!

Lovers' Logic

"CAN your Susie cook?"
I asked of Jack.
"Did you ever," says he,
"See hair so black?"

"CAN she sew and dust?
Can she darn your socks?"
"Don't you think," says he,
"She picks flossy frocks?"

"CAN she save your coin?
Can she run a flat?"
"Isn't she just too sweet,"
Says he, "in that hat?"

"IS her temper mild?
Is she kind and sweet?"
"Have you ever," says he,
"Seen such tiny feet?"
